

Today, 8:47 PM

Are you really not going to bring Andy back tonight? His birthday presents are waiting for him. His soccer practice is tomorrow.

Today, 9:51 PM

When I called earlier today, I asked to have a conversation with you regarding Andy's care and some questions I had about things he had said to me while here. In an effort to coparent, I wanted to discuss those things. You did not want to discuss them, and until those concerns are resolved and we have a conversation, the answer is no. In addition, you texted me at 8:47pm and it is his bedtime. I am not putting him in a car this late for a soccer practice when I have these concerns to discuss.
