

On 05/26/2024 after the events detailed on the previous page a vote was made by the moderator who dealt with the issue, after posting all of the evidence, with initial unanimity in riskord-club.

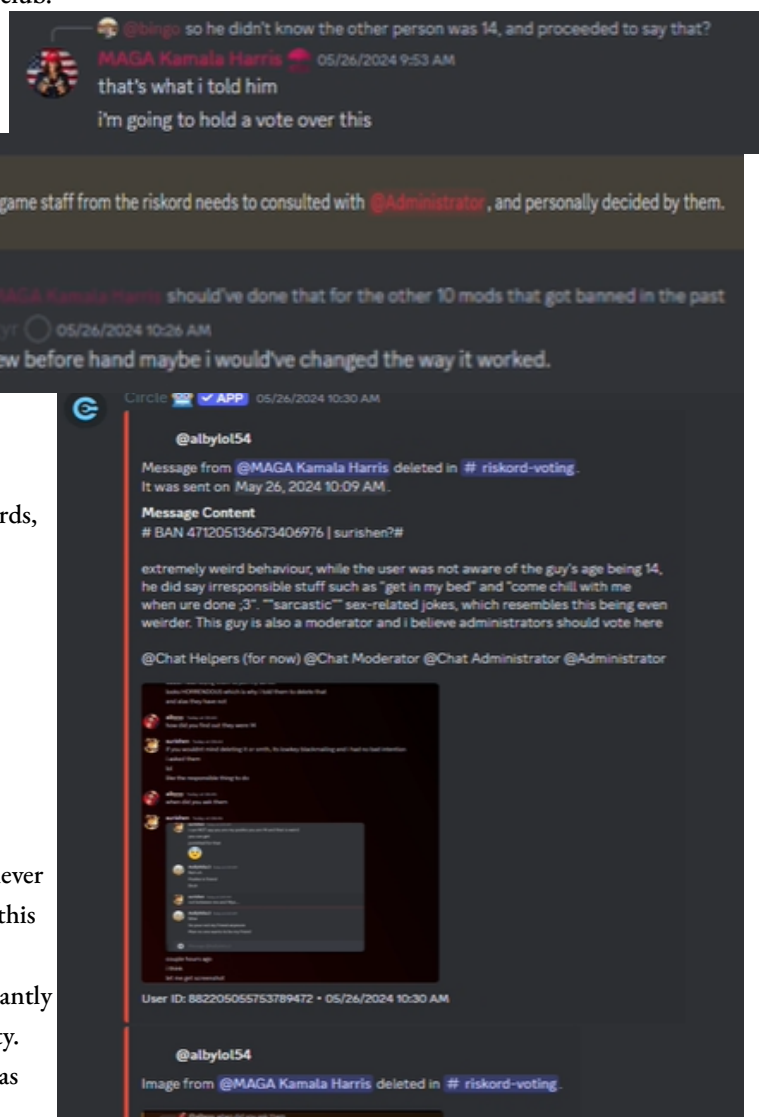

Drengyr immediately appeared and announced, on the spot and in staunch coincidence with his E-boyfriend being reported, that any sort of game staff were henceforth out of the bounds of chat staff and beyond their criteria, only being decided by the administration, the vote being deleted shortly after. Just the fact that he did this is sufficiently obscene but his takes and excuses on the situation are worse.

Then a conversation ensued between him and the moderator in Riskord club. Yanranay and Surrealcactus joined shortly afterwards, both known friends of Drengyr and one of them, unfortunately, another Director.

See for yourself:

The main takeaways from the conversation, in summary, are the following:

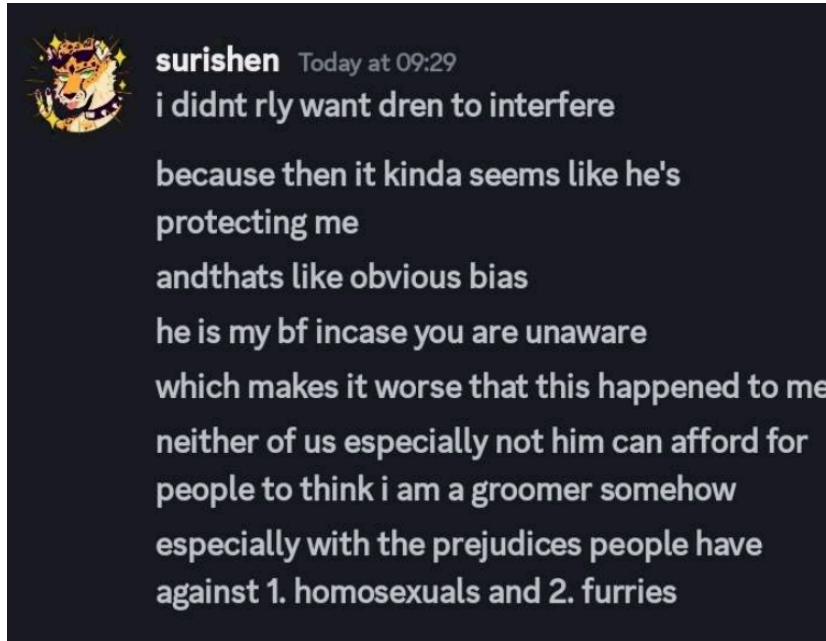

1. Drengyr repeatedly refers to Surishen as “the mod” and never reveals any sort of attachment to him, concealing that at this point and before they were already ODing. See other comments like “Worth losing a mod for”. Drengyr is blatantly biased and has no position to give an image of impartiality.
2. Drengyr is repeatedly aggressive towards the mod who was handling this affair and insults him. If one reads the conversation he will see that this reports only to the mod responding with good arguments.
3. Drengyr makes it a point to deliberately lessen the gravity of the interaction by claiming that Surishen was friends with the minor which was blatantly false and completely oblivious to Surishen’s own claims (that he picked up this person from risk public). He even goes as far as to implicitly claim that if they are talking about things that are unrelated to Risk, it is beyond Alby’s care, insulting him too.
4. Yanranay appears shortly after Drengyr despite not usually weighing in on these matters. His comments throughout the discussion are constantly directed at pointing out how “you are thinking too much about this” and “you don’t have authority to decide on this” to the moderator. Surrealcactus’ intervention is lesser but still along these lines and no doubt, with the same intent. Both of these should be considered accomplices to Drengyr and by extension, Surishen. NOTE: Surrealcactus later banned the minor who reported Surishen allegedly for sending gore to Surishen.
5. Drengyr says “but he is not a groomer” multiple times along with Surrealcactus. Surishen also states multiple times that the screenshots make him look like a groomer in other sections. This is despite Alby never claiming directly he was a groomer and starting the ban vote solely based on the bizarre, sexual interaction which he was calling “weird”. There is a saying in latin: Excusatio non petita, accusatio manifesta. Meaning that when an excuse is given when none has been asked for, one has accused himself. “Groomer” is never mentioned by Alby or anyone within this issue except for Drengyr, Surreal and Surishen himself. That is because the affair spoke for itself.

6. The moderator points out how blatantly stupid the sporadic and on-spot rule change, which was done merely to favor his boyfriend, and is rebuked by both Drengyr and Yanranay for this. Drengyr admits that he changed the way it worked in the 3rd image in this section.
7. Drengyr ignores the would-be ban and compromises only on giving his E-boyfriend a negative observation and “drilling him in dms”. I do not think I have to elaborate anymore on this because the implications are obvious and no argument is needed. Add onto this how he treats the moderator who was concerned with this. Drengyr’s actions were malicious and anything but impartial.

The situation ended here and was very quietly buried until Fleug’s group picked up upon it (they were all banned)..

NOTE: The display looks wacky but Fleug has publicly stated this image is not doctored.