

In Defense Against Leah, Exposing Abuse and Behavioral Patterns

The purpose of this document is to showcase the recognized patterns of frequent allegations and genuine abuse that Leah “loohhoo” exercises, and to give people a reasonable scope of the character they’re dealing with when engaging with Leah. This article urges the reader to make their own decision about this person, but makes a great effort to point out the unhealthy patterns and obsessive nature that she demonstrates when creating documents and/or airing out dirty laundry/blackmail for everyone she has ever dated including her current boyfriend. Unlike anything Leah has ever posted in a document, all of these claims are backed by first-hand accounts and proof straight from Leah’s twitter/DMs. This document serves as a proof

Leah/Looh has a well-documented history of labeling her former and ongoing partners abusive without substantiation, and routinely accuses acquaintances of scandalous behavior with similarly poor reasoning. Her own behavioral patterns deserve the same level of scrutiny she affords others, and one might conclude her own transgressions are far more problematic than those of which she accuses her mutuals.

Leah's Mistreatment of Animals

Conclusion

Leah labels Ryan an Abuser

Ryan was Leah's partner before SimpleFlips. Throughout Leah's and Simple's relationship, Leah confided in Simple many grievances she had with Ryan as a partner. This started before the relationship, and she portrayed him as a guy who was keeping her in a relationship and she could not get away from due to financial / life circumstances, and felt forced to continue living with him my roommate is my boyfriend. I am going to break up with him tomorrow, but the computer I use plus the xbox controller belong to him and I suspect he won't let me use them anymore I think. so I'm very flustered because I don't want to have to give up streaming when I just started and am doing well.

SimpleFlips 12/6/2017 12:54 AM

Oh god. That's so stressful. Why breaking up if you don't mind me asking?

Looh 12/6/2017 12:54 AM

we've been off and on for the past two years. he's just so emotionally unstable and doesn't seem to be moving anywhere with his life. he's 3 years younger than me and very immature as I mentioned all the times he was siding with the other roommate's shitty behavior and yeah.

Looh 12/8/2017 2:12 PM

I resent the people I made the choices for because they never reciprocated
so yeah, I regret most of them

I regret going to california last summer and living with Ryan + his psychotic mother, and having a mini psychotic break
I don't regret moving to Michigan. I love Ann Arbor / Ypsi a lot. so much opportunity in one little area (edited)

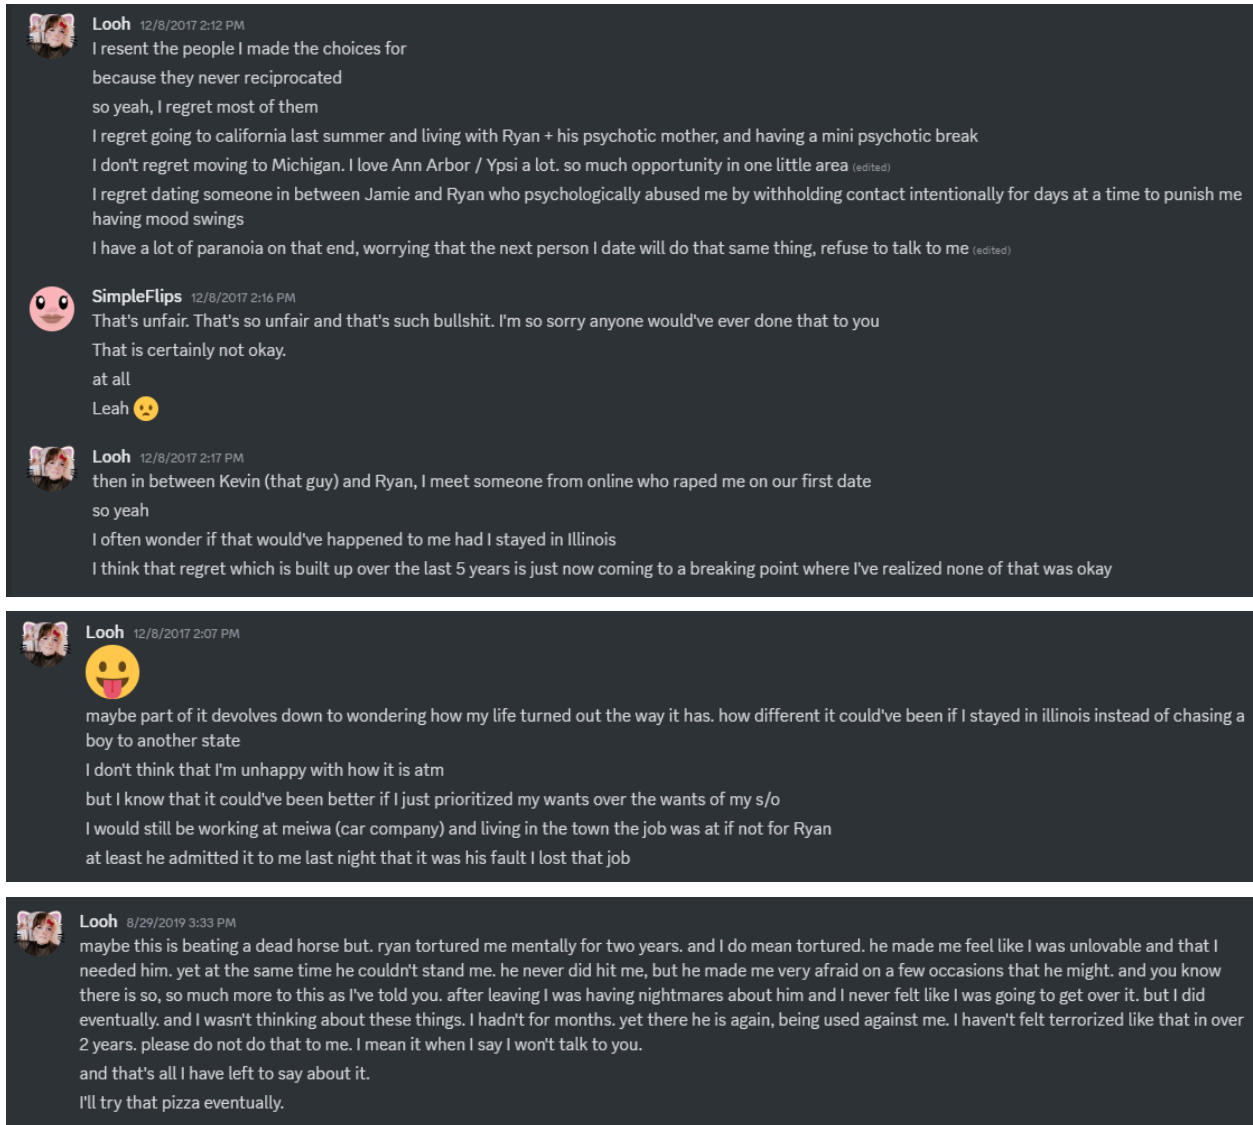

Looh 12/8/2017 2:17 PM

then in between Kevin (that guy) and Ryan, I meet someone from online who raped me on our first date
so yeah

I often wonder if that would've happened to me had I stayed in Illinois

Within two days of mentioning she has a boyfriend, she has labeled both him and his mother psychotic. While there's not a lot of information on this, note that this is the start of a long pattern of Leah getting into "Abusive" relationships, tarnishing their name, and then jumping into a new "Abusive" relationship sometimes without properly ending the one prior. Using her sob story as a way to get sympathy and yet another person who's willing to take her in and care for her every need. Just to once again be named an "abuser".

[12/6/2017]

Leah Manipulates Kevin and Members of his Friend Group

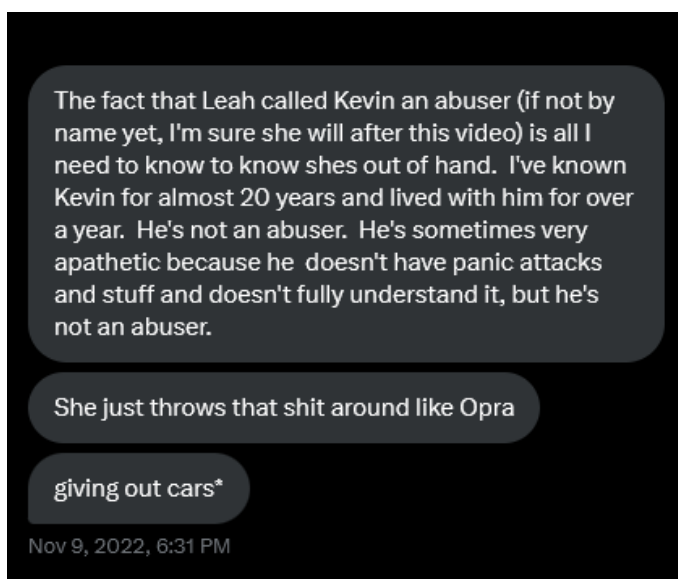

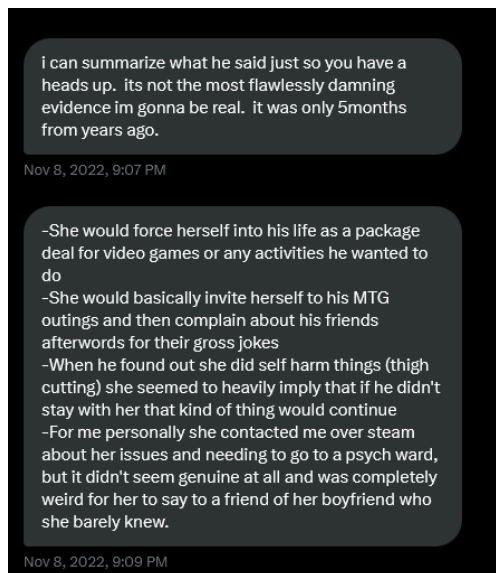

Kevin was the person Leah dated in-between Jamie and Ryan, once again, this person has been labeled by her as an "Abuser" as all of her relationships tend to do. Leah admits to having major mood swings around this time, and claims that Kevin "Psychologically Abused" her by withholding contact intentionally for days at a time to "punish her" for these.

Pictured:

Some needed context is that this relationship lasted around 5 months, we were reached out by a friend of Kevin's (Will) on twitter for more details of the relationship. Kevin paints a very toxic and frustrating relationship to deal with, involving her inserting herself into his relationships and friendships from the start and heavily implying that if he were to leave the relationship she would commit self harm. Even reaching out to Kevin's friends to loop them into her manipulation even when there were no reasonable relationships made.

After this, Kevin decided to speak on the matter, and created a small video with Will to discuss the actions and feelings he had on Leah.

This video can be seen HERE. Leah is extremely quick to label all her relationships as abusive while never reflecting on the genuine turmoil, manipulation and abuse that she can cause to these men.

Leah accuses Liam of cheating in speedruns

Leah used to edit for Cheese and was tasked to create a comparison video between Liam and Cheese. Leah believes she finds evidence of him cheating and wants to figure out how to publicize this, considers how to release the information anonymously, comes up with a potential title/clickbait, and tries to use Cheese to fight this battle for her (as she often has people fight her battles for her)

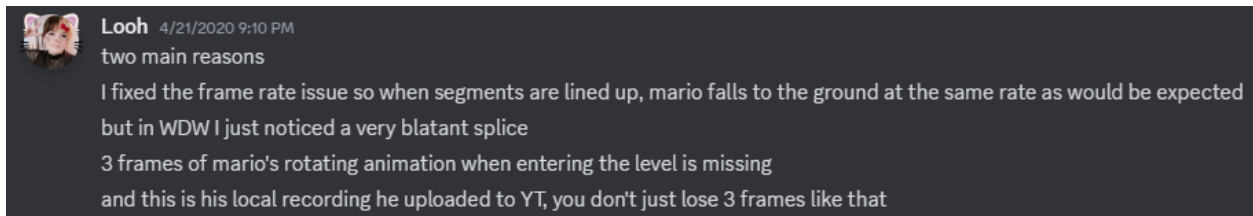

SimpleFlips made it very clear he wanted nothing to do with it.

Looh 4/21/2020 9:17 PM

I mean, I'm anxious about this as fuck

SimpleFlips 4/21/2020 9:17 PM

It is in my work sphere

Looh 4/21/2020 9:17 PM

because I don't know what to do with this information

SimpleFlips 4/21/2020 9:17 PM

that you'd be directly influencing if you do anything with it, I wish it be you gave the info to someone else who attaches themselves to the drama :/

Simple being very adamant that he wishes for her not to drag him into drama over baseless accusations.

Looh 4/21/2020 9:20 PM

I'll have to figure out a way to make it seem anonymous

Looh 4/21/2020 9:22 PM

I mentioned it to cheese and told him to not say anything, and he hasn't responded to me yet, but I was telling him about being suspicious like ages ago because of the weird way liam's segments would finish late/early

you can play this off in a different way

SimpleFlips 4/21/2020 9:31 PM

so anonymous might be the best way again

Looh 4/21/2020 9:31 PM

"did Liam cheat his run?" (edited)

just show the evidence

but make no accusation

SimpleFlips 4/21/2020 9:31 PM

that would look really bad

coming from cheese

Looh 4/21/2020 9:32 PM

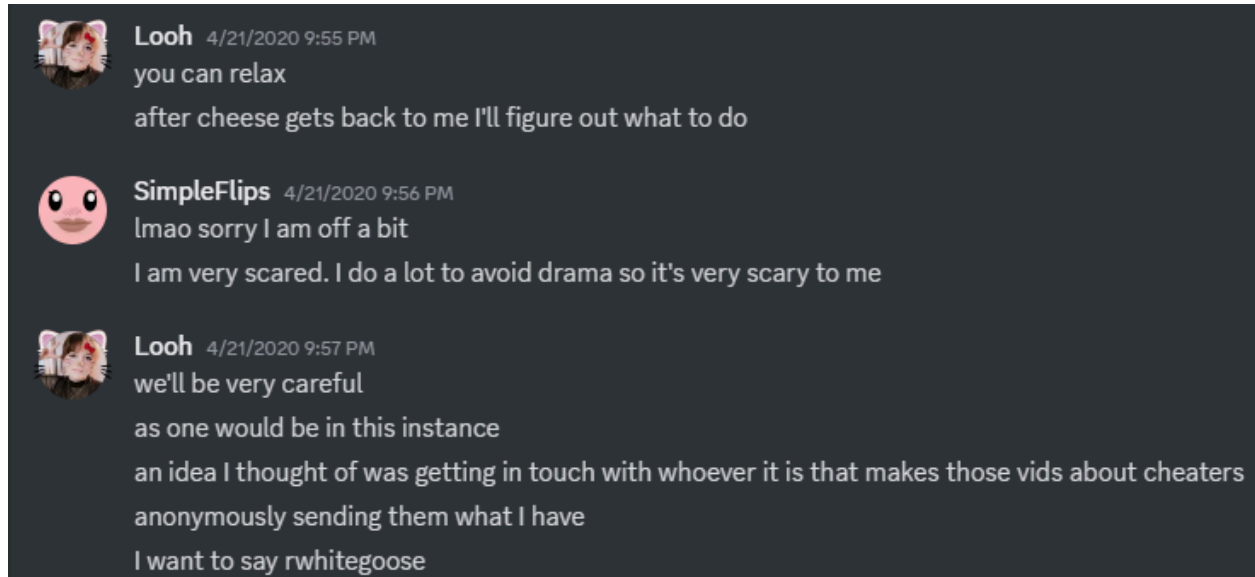

yeah it would need to be anonymous

SimpleFlips 4/21/2020 9:32 PM

it's one thing to have proof

but to like petty and ignorant if wrong

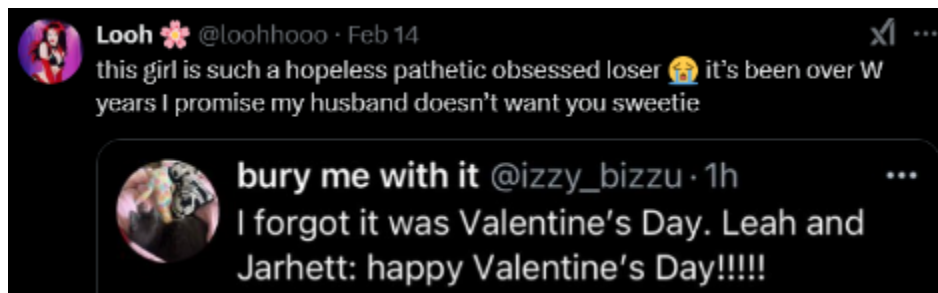

She wants to give this “evidence” to a video essayist so that they can ruin Liam’s reputation for her instead.

Leah scams Izzy, Homewrecks them, and Publicly Shames them

Context (Izzy is Cosmonawt_’s ex girlfriend. Cosmonawt_ is Leah’s current boyfriend. Cowmonawt used to stream Metroid Prime Echos)

Leah would go on to actively pursue her current partner while they were dating Izzy. Leah knew Izzy and would intentionally harass her, call her rude names, use her boyfriend against her to make her feel jealous and crazy, helped her current partner scam Izzy out of some money, and then publicly ridicules and shames her.

She doesn’t just have disagreements with Izzy. She needs to ensure that the public opinion of Izzy is damaged as well

Leah labels SimpleFlips a cheater publicly while dating them

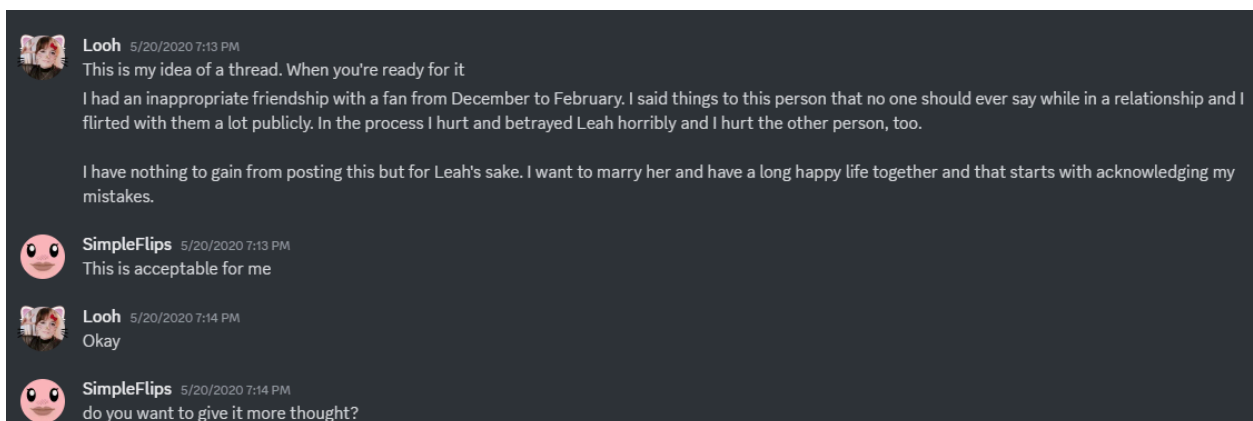

Leah over the course of several months would accuse / try to convince me that I cheated on her because of the interactions with Bre. During this time, she was very adamant and consistent in making sure I was aware that if our friends knew what I had done, or if the public knew, that everyone would hate me and I would have nothing.

During a conversation in which she took my phone and started scrolling through my message history, she “found” the nail in the coffin that was PROOF she had been cheated on. I called them sweet, and at this point in time she had convinced me I did go too far. I sat there and didn’t say anything while she just talked and talked and told me how horrible I was for a couple of hours. She told me everything I would have to do to fix the relationship including going out and telling everyone what I did, telling me that I would have to tell Bre never to talk to me again.

She wrote word-for-word the message I was meant to write Bre, and the message I was to tweet out. I was crying while she urged me to do both of these things, convincing me it had to be done.

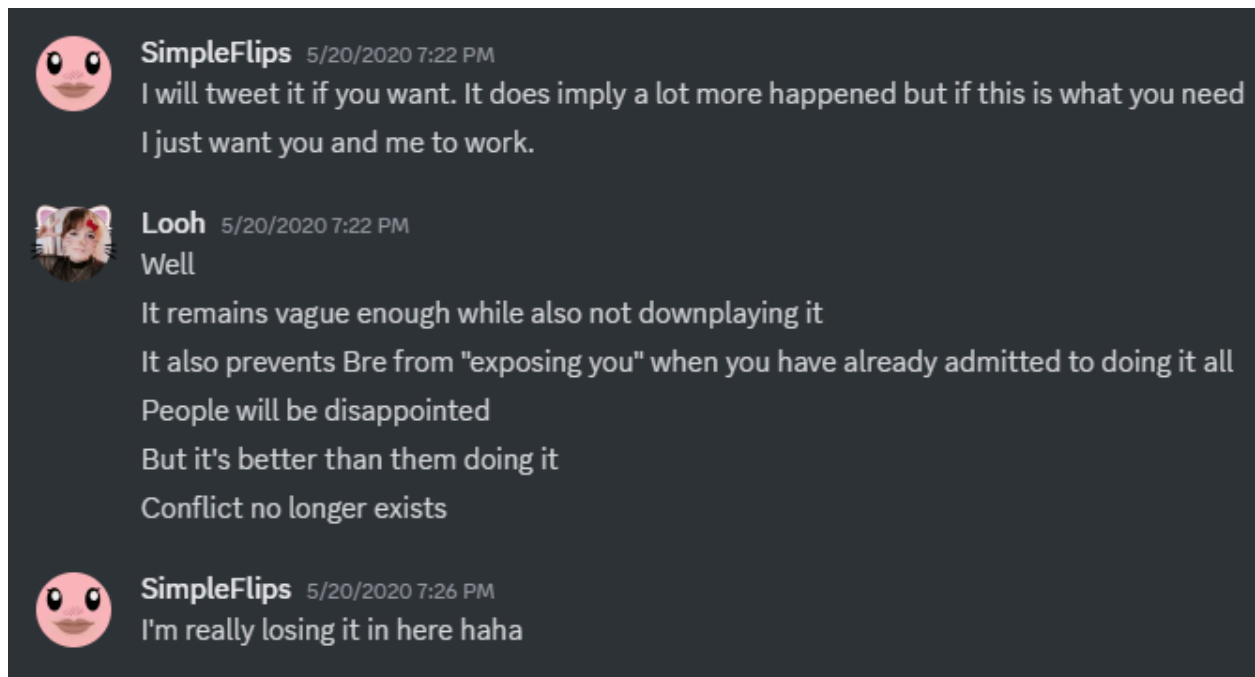

“I had an inappropriate friendship with a fan”

Many people saw a tweet (now deleted) on May 20th, 2020 by Simple that went like this:

“I had an inappropriate friendship with a fan from December to February. I said things to this person that no one should ever say while in a relationship and I flirted with them a lot publicly. In the process I hurt and betrayed Leah horribly and I hurt the other person, too. I have nothing to gain from posting this but for Leah's sake. We're going to get married and have a long, happy life together and that can't exist without acknowledging my mistakes. I absolutely fucked up. I'm sorry to Leah, to them, and to you all.”

A month ago I apologized for “making” him write this. Here’s the context behind that tweet and why I definitely shouldn’t have apologized at all.

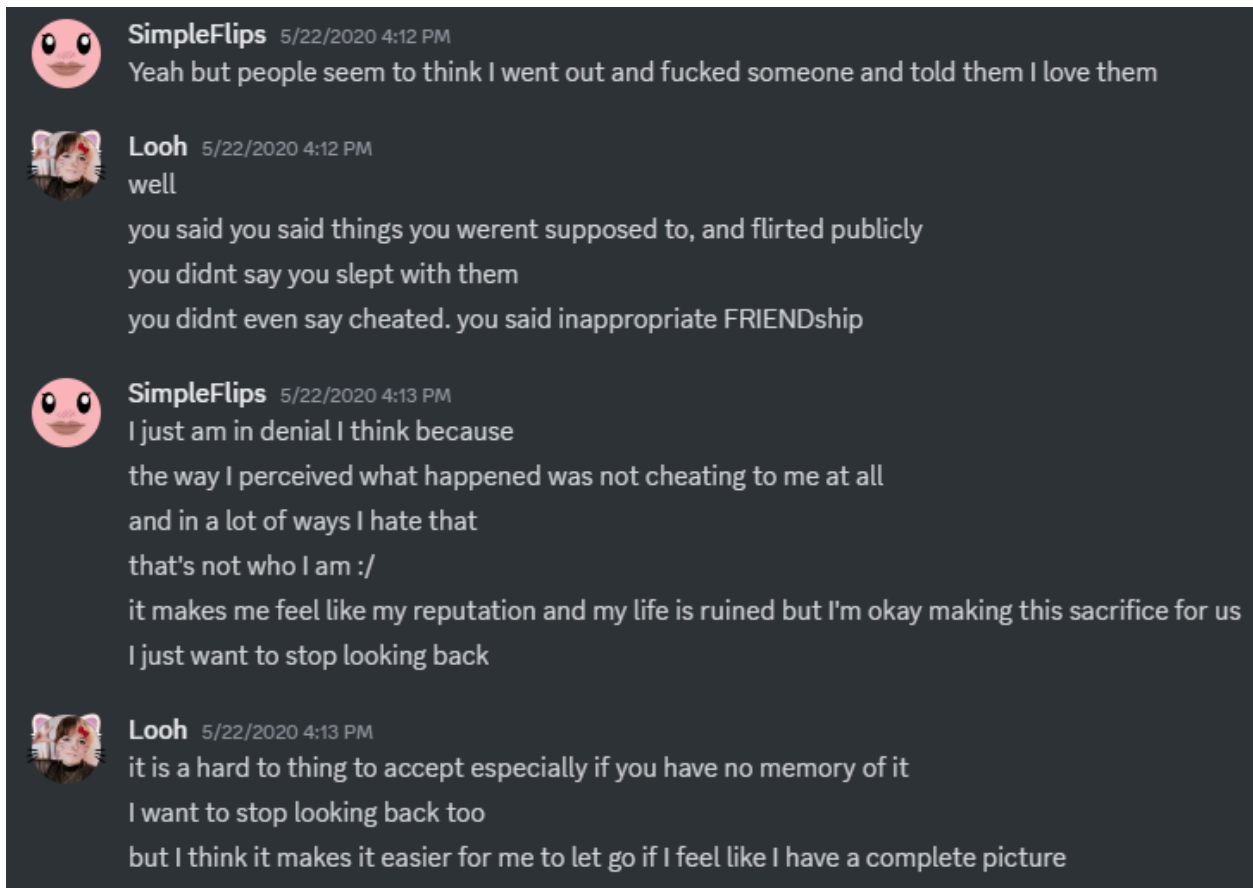

She convinced me Bre would cancel me if I didn’t get ahead of this.

Bre wasn’t going to expose anyone. Bre hadn’t done anything wrong. Leah tricked me. I was crying and shaking and trying to do what I believed was morally correct despite not believing it whatsoever.

Her just gaslighting me after. I never felt like I was being flirty. Bre never felt like they were being flirty. Nothing ever happened, and then after having me block and remove this person from my life and label myself a cheater - she would then go on to stalk Bre for over a full year after this.

Leah Misrepresents her Finances/Living Situation to Scam Money

During Leah and SimpleFlips' separation, Leah used her connections gained through the relationship to paint an unfair perspective of the relationship. This happened with more than one person, but in the spirit of keeping some people anonymous, we will only be talking about Bolding, as he gave permission to use him as an example in this document.

Leah used her shaky relationships with Simpleflips' personal friends to outright scam them out of money and manipulate them for support. Leah genuinely lied to these people and despite being in a scenario where she had a monetary connection to Romhacking.com (provided by SimpleFlips) and a new, freshly acquired boyfriend who was supporting her monetarily and provided a place for her to go. Leah reached out to Bolding for money and support. Here's what he had to say about it:

If Leah's claims about SimpleFlips are true, this would still be manipulating people for monetary gain while being completely stable money-wise. A victim should not need to lie to friends of their "abuser" about their current situation to paint themselves as looking even worse. No matter how you look at this situation, Leah lied about their monetary situation and alienated SimpleFlips' friends- and there is literally nothing Leah could gain from this except for money and more drama.

Leah labels her Current Partner a Cheater Publicly

Earlier in 2024, Leah would make a large post about how she was cheated on by her current partner - that it was a coworker - and later posted that this coworker homewrecker would be fired.

Cosmonaut_ would set his twitter to private for nearly a year, and Leah would delete the tweets. While I can't find a screenshot of the original post declaring him a cheater, there are still some residual ones such as below

Leah has a pattern of labeling the people she's with a cheater/abuser as a means of gaining control. She did this to me when I was trying to break up with her, and it's not surprising to see she's still doing it to others. Leah has no issue with the rest of the world thinking her partner is unfaithful/horrible

Leah's Mistreatment of Animals

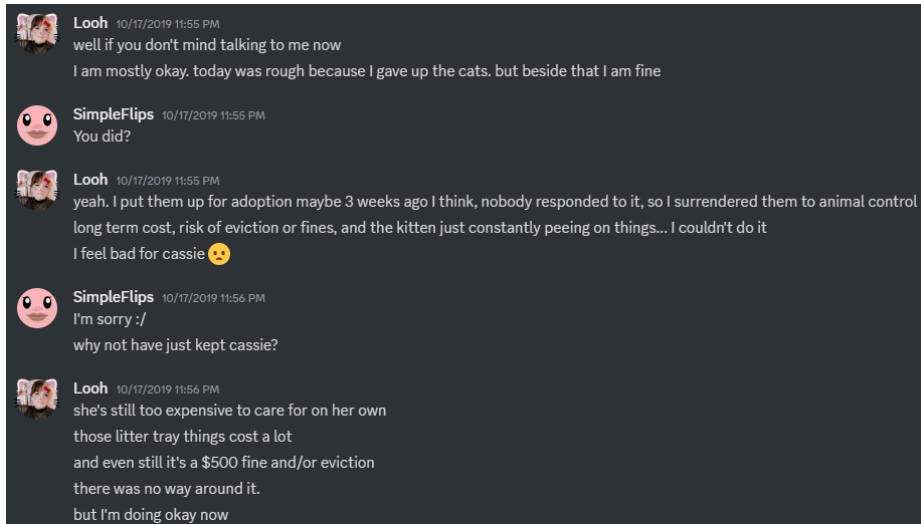

I used to have a cat named Cass that I adopted with Leah. We did it through a local agency and signed an oath that should we be unable to continue caring for her, we'd bring them back to the same agency. I took care of this cat for about a year.

When we separated in 2019, she begged and insisted to keep Cass and I wanted to emotionally detach myself from everything so I just let her have it. I deeply sympathized with the person I was leaving behind and didn't want her to also be losing her pet - as it is true that Cass spent more time with Leah during the days than me.

Without telling me whatsoever, Leah puts Cass up for adoption in addition to the other kitten she just adopted a few months prior. When no one adopted her, she gave away both pets to animal control.

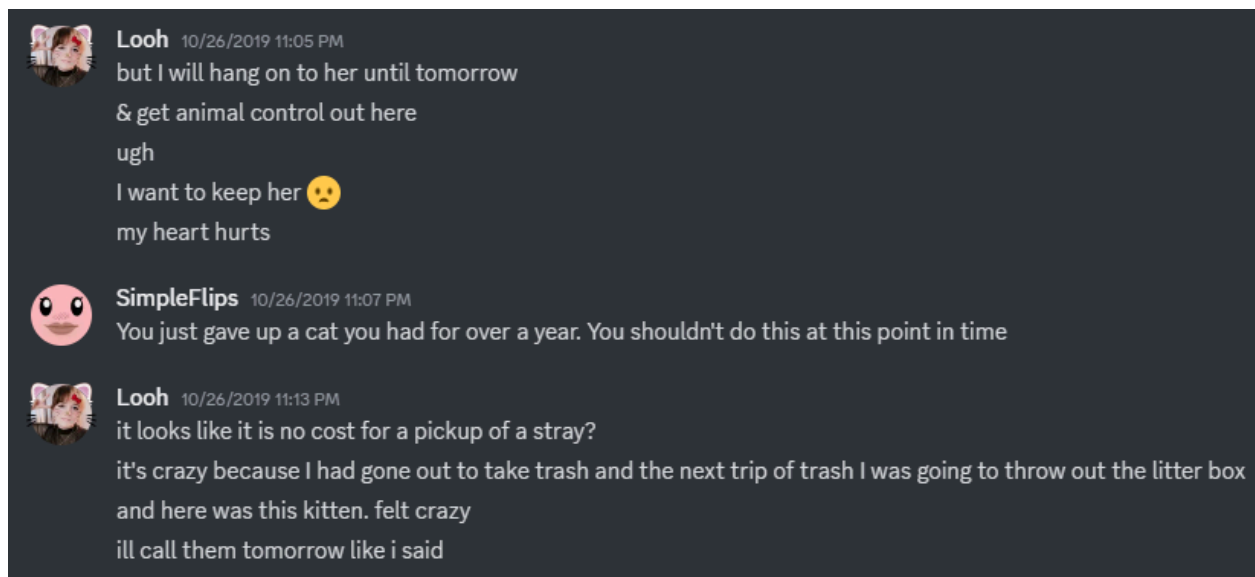

What kind of heartless fucking monster can just take care of a cat for a full year, spend 24/7 with her, and just give her up to an animal shelter where she would likely be put down WITHOUT EVEN TELLING ME. SHE GAVE AWAY MY FUCKING CAT

The screenshot shows a text message conversation with the following messages:

- Looh 10/17/2019 11:55 PM
well if you don't mind talking to me now
I am mostly okay. today was rough because I gave up the cats. but beside that I am fine
- SimpleFlips 10/17/2019 11:55 PM
You did?
- Looh 10/17/2019 11:55 PM
yeah. I put them up for adoption maybe 3 weeks ago I think, nobody responded to it, so I surrendered them to animal control long term cost, risk of eviction or fines, and the kitten just constantly peeing on things... I couldn't do it
I feel bad for cassie 😞
- SimpleFlips 10/17/2019 11:56 PM
I'm sorry :/
why not have just kept cassie?
- Looh 10/17/2019 11:56 PM
she's still too expensive to care for on her own those litter tray things cost a lot and even still it's a $500 fine and/or eviction there was no way around it.
but I'm doing okay now

She then considers adopting another cat about a week later.

When we got back together, I agreed to adopt another cat under the conditions that she would not be treated the way Cass used to be treated. That Rosie would be allowed to come into our room, sleep with us, and generally have an environment where she felt loved.

Leah agreed to this, but only for a couple of weeks. She insisted that Rosie couldn't be in the room because the door needed to be closed for her to be able to sleep, and having to get up out of bed to open the door would be too much for her. I offered to get up out of the bed but me having to get up out of the bed was also too disruptive for her sleep.

Rosie, unlike Cass who seemed okay with being kept out of the room at night, was extremely anxious. She would spend most nights meowing and crying and waiting for attention and would often be waiting at the door when morning finally came around. Rosie would sometimes throw up during the middle of the night during this and Leah would yell at her, put her face in it, and say she was doing it "for attention"

I took Rosie away from that monster. She now has a home where she is never alone and is comfortable every single night, and is no longer an "anxious cat."

On top of that, She tried to take Rosie as well and when I said I wanted to keep her she was like "oh yeah I wasn't going to be able to keep her anyway." She would've fucking given away or got Rosie killed too.

Deleted Tweets and Hiding Evidence

Leah's Twitter is a minefield of toxicity and contradiction, it doesn't take anyone long to take a plain look at her posts and see that she is a very toxic and unhinged individual. These tweets, however, are actually the refined and sifted tweets that Leah deems acceptable for viewership. Leah has a very frequent habit of deleting tweets that might paint her in an unfortunate light. While deleted tweets are difficult to get your hands on and show off in a document, the context in which these tweets were deleted are incredibly important.

Note the 79 deleted tweets on 2025-02-16. This lines up with Leah posting her newest document that “disproves” Nesamons’ perspective against her three years prior. The idea of deleting nearly 80 different posts while creating a document that’s meant to push proof first and set the record straight is incredibly strange behavior. Leah already has a history contradicting herself, a good example being how she admitted to publicly lying about Simpleflips cheating on her twitter after their separation, then went back on it again. It’s difficult to view 79 deleted tweets on the same day you are posting a critical document as anything other than deleting contradictions you’ve made or tweets that outright disprove claims you wish to make now.

This is admittedly more of a speculative take, but I urge you as the reader to do your own research here, whether she’s deleting her most recent post about her Boyfriend cheating on her, or deleting downright offensive claims about others. You can see her patterns of deleting tweets in plain detail if you look on this website. Someone who deletes so much of her words during pivotal moments that should require transparency can not be trusted.

Leah Tries to Cancel Lane from the Metroid Community

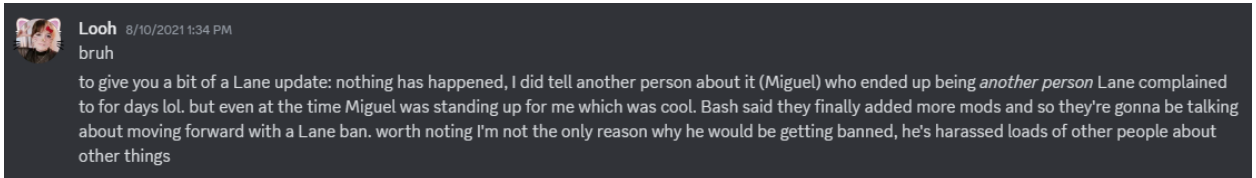

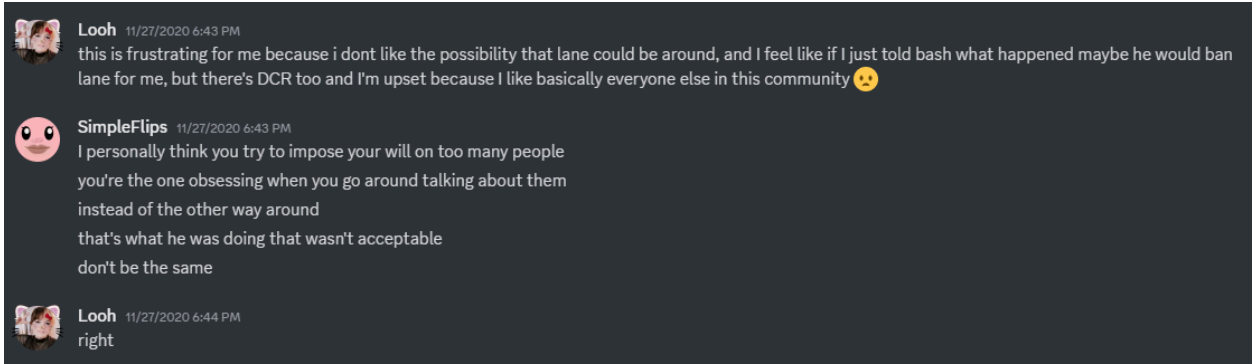

Leah’s obsession with Lane would span the course of years. While it may have started earlier, to my knowledge it begins with her trying to use her influence in cheese’s community to get cheese to ban a prominent community member, Lane.

Cheese doesn’t want to be put in the middle of two people, and ultimately agrees to not acknowledge him as much as a means to make Leah more comfortable. It then extends to Lane's inner social circles and his main speedrunning community, Metroid.

- Leah is privately trying to get Lane's friends to block him (or ignore them in chat)

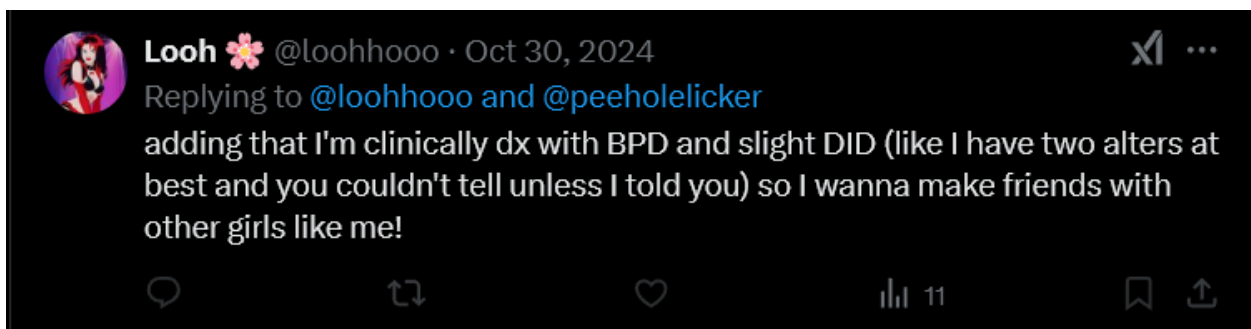

Leah creates documents and discusses with mods to get Lane banned from the metroid community.

I can't find this document but I have to imagine that even though Lane may not have been the most well adjusted person, I'm sure many of his behaviors could be explained by people going to all of his friends privately and asking them to ignore him or outright remove them from his life. I've been unable to find him again online.

People who did not align with Leah's perspective on Lane would be banned/ostracized from Leah's circles instead.

Conclusion

Leah has an incredibly clear pattern of victimizing herself and crying wolf on every single relationship she has ever been in. Even the “healthy” relationship she currently finds herself in is currently wrapped up in Homewrecking, cheating, scamming, and general toxicity. Which are all things that she seems to be eager to share publicly on her social media. Creating lengthy documents on people, and trying to get others kicked out of their personal circles is something that clearly excites her. Yet there has never been any reflection on her own faults that are arguably much more severe than anything she attacks people for. Leah has factually scammed kind people trying to help her out of money, manipulated people and her relationships, threatened to harm herself to her boyfriends, and lied and covered up countless tweets and proof of her wrongdoing. This isn't even a person who believes she's a victim. This is a person who will scam and manipulate you for her own good.

Leah is not worth the effort.
