A Response and Apology

Nothing I say will make anything I said or did okay and I need you to understand that.

Rape fetish:

I have an extremely harmful and disgusting fetish/kink for non-con things. This comes from things that have happened to me personally as well as the constant exposure to porn I had since I was a child. The depictions of sex through porn is what developed this kink. I have never made anybody do anything against their consent.

Grayson:

Yes. I did talk about raping him. There isn't any excuse, no circumstance in which this is okay or excusable or anything. There needs to be no confusion here. I did talk about and fantasize about doing those things to my friend, someone who had their total faith and trust in me and viewed me as a protector. I betrayed them in the worst way possible and I need people reading this to check on him.

I NEVER planned to physically rape or have sex with Grayson. I asked Grayson if he would ever want to meet up in the future. I asked where and what things we would do and he gave very nondescript answers and I never asked about it more than once on one day. I never told him or Olivia any dates I would do anything because I NEVER planned on actually physically committing that fucking crime. During any context I said I would go out and rape Grayson it was always when Pieman and I were roleplaying or otherwise horny. That doesn't make it okay for me to have those thoughts or to have those worlds by put onto a screen but that is the case. I never ever made plans. I never ever was going to rape him in real life, and I NEVER ever talked sexually to him at any point. Olivia mentions I "changed my story" by saying I wouldn't rape Grayson because I couldn't physically meet him cuz I can't drive when in reality that was always something I had said, it was never plausible and thus not going to happen.

I mentioned that my boyfriend does age regress. He and I CONSENSUALLY do non-con things, CNC. The only time I ever "manipulate" my boyfriend into regressing is when he needs to go to sleep during stressful times and I nudge him into it. That is non sexual. I am not discussing the sex life of my boyfriend and I. It is 100% consensual and thats all that needs to be known.

Pictures of People:

Olivia sent picture of people in decreasing age to me. At this point in time, she and I had been doing sexually explicit things bordering on extremely taboo, for example I would play into her incest kink when she was horny and she'd tell me she wanted to be my daughter and things of that nature. She sent pictures of people and told me their ages after I said if I would have sex with them. I am only attracted to my age range. 15-19 or so. I did not ever say I would have sex with anybody in the single digits. The lowest age I said was 12 and that was playing into the things Olivia had talked to me about before. As she mentions the two of us deleted chats and I didn't screenshot anything, but she did mention things having to do with younger children, even asking me if I would rape the son I had with my partner in the future. I am not attracted to anybody under the age of 14, and I have only ever sexually interacted with people above the age of 15.

The Video:

Relating back to Olivia's question, asking me if I would rape my potential son (which I said no to), I did something stupid and thought to satiate her desires for that fantasy and send her something. Let me be 100% clear. I did NOT send her child porn. I only have a snapchat account for people in my irl life, family and irl friends. I have NEVER had a ten year old on snapchat. I asked her twice at most if she wanted a video relating to that fantasy of hers. She said yes the second time. The video is from Xrares, which is a hardcore porn site. I cannot for the life of me find the video, the website is janky as fuck especially on mobile which is why I just screen recorded it instead of saving the link. You can try to search on the site "daddy fucks little twink boy" or something along those lines. They take down many videos due to them appearing to violate guidelines. If I have been reported to the FBI, they will figure out I did not have that video.

Other Videos:

In 2019 I had access to a folder that was posted online that had videos of people my age. I never ever saved any to my phone, and I deleted the links when I thought for more than one second about the fact that that was illegal and that that was fucking disgusting.

I have never groped anybody, my school has cameras literally everywhere. I do not want to rape 12 year olds. Regardless of whether or not you believe me, I've already set up therapy because it is clear to me that the idea of forcing people to do something is clearly fucked up and yet I am drawn to it. My parents have signed off on my going to therapy. Therapy is the first step I'm hoping to get into a program to help me deal with my sex addiction.

I never offered to send Olivia anything first. That doesn't change the fact I violated the trust of people who shared their most private moments with me. There is nothing I can say that will make that okay, rest assured I've deleted every single image off of my phone and/or cleared chats containing pictures of people.

I am not a rapist. I have never had any non-consensual physical contact with anybody, and I have never had sex. I am not a pedophile, but I did engage in roleplay and talking that would make Olivia think I am. I do not possess and child porn. In a video where I type "I deleted all the illegal things" I am referring to pictures I sent Olivia of friends.

I did say I was going to kill myself multiple times and that is because of several factors. I can find a firearm in the house, I have never been so isolated, my future, etc. etc. I am not going to do that. It's not any way to deal with this.

I was scared of the "FBI investigating me" because of course I was, I don't own a video of a rape of a ten year old, I still have things a minor shouldn't have on his phone. People that consented to me saving their images.

Any moment I lash out at Olivia, it was genuine. But since then I've calmed down and I've come to realise that she did the right thing. If she didn't do this I wouldn't finally be forced to get off the internet and actually deal with my problems. If she didn't, maybe the things I talked about would turn into actual things I ended up doing and I understand that's not a risk she can take, so you know what this had to be done.

In short, I am not a rapist, I am not a pedophile, but I did do things that would give Olivia that impression. I have a rape fetish. I said things I shouldn't have during roleplay and sexting that is under no circumstance okay. But I am not attracted to anybody outside of my age range. I never said I would have sex with anybody under double digits. I owned no video of a ten year old. Again, you can choose to believe her over me I don't blame you.

This is the last time I will post. I've been terminally online for too long. Intrusive thoughts combining with my sex and masturbation addiction do not equal anything good. To Grayson, I'm sorry, but nothing I say will make it better. To the people whos pictures I showed to Olivia, nothing will ever be able to excuse that and nothing will ever be able to be said to make an apology that works. I am so sorry.

To my friends, people who trusted and loved me, I'm sorry I betrayed your trust and didn't tell you the fucked up things in my mind.

I might not have responded to everything. It's been an hour or so since this was posted.

I'm not coming back any time soon, most likely ever. I don't want to. I need to focus on having these disgusting and violating thoughts taken out of my mind. Therapy in the past has helped me. I hope it does now. I plan on doing sex counseling and a program to stop masturbation addiction.

Goodbye, again, make sure Grayson is okay. If you were friends with me I'm sorry I ruined it all, you're better off without me and I hope that you'll be okay. Don't associate with me its not worth it.
