Good morning, Ruth.

I was wondering if we could fill out a form to get on the agenda for a city council meeting?

Thanks

Hi, Ruth

After doing more research, I had to update the agenda request. Please find it attached. As stated on the sheet, May 20th would work better for me.

Mr. Greer:

Although you will not be available for today's City Council meeting, the Council will still consider the request to possibly expand the AE District. If the Council is open to the idea, then a future request for a specific property may be warranted. The Council may decide that they have no interest in expanding the AE District regardless of location. If that is the case, then no future request, from you or another other person, will be considered. Staff is seeking guidance on how to handle this type of request in the future, so the agenda item still holds merit.

Hello, Ruth

There is a man named Matthew Hardin, who is asking around Humboldt County staff for communication regarding me.

He is an attorney, but a very unethical one at that. He is representing a stalking site in a copyright case that I had filed against his client three years ago. I actually won an appeal at the tenth circuit court of appeals in 2023.

He is trying to gather every conversation about me to establish a case because I had tried postponing a zoom conference last Tuesday because it was going to conflict with the city council meeting I was given short term notice of that you wouldn't postpone.

The emails I've had with the city are completely irrelevant and he is abusing his position as an attorney the conversations onto the stalking site.

I do not consent to the release of ANY OF MY CONVERSATIONS. If he wants them, please request that he get a court order.

Thank you!

Mr. Greer:

A transmittal sent earlier today from you to my city email address indicated that inquiries were being made to local governments regarding communications "regarding" you or "conversations" about you, and that "...emails [you] had with the city are completely irrelevant." You concluded the email with the comment that: "I do not consent to the release of ANY OF MY CONVERSATIONS."

Email communications to and from the city email addresses are public records per the Nevada Public Records Act (NPRA). Generally, public records must be disclosed for inspection and copying, unless the record is declared confidential by law. If a governmental entity must deny a person's request to inspect or copy the public record because it is confidential the governmental entity is required to provide the requester with notice in writing that the record is confidential, and the entity must cite to a specific statute or other legal authority that makes the record confidential. Under the NPRA, open records are the rule, and any non-disclosure of records is the exception. The burden of proving that a record should not be disclosed is on the governmental entity, and that proof usually involves either a citation to a legal authority of a declaration of confidentiality or a showing that the entity's interest in non-disclosure clearly outweighs the public's interest in access. There is no legal authority which declares that email communications you had or may have with the city regarding you or conversations about you are confidential. Likewise, there is no apparent reason the city would have to not disclose such communications. Accordingly, if a public records request is made for email communications you have had with the city (including your earlier email referenced above), or that the city has had with you (including this email), the records will be provided unless it can be shown there is legal authority declaring such communications confidential, or that the public's interest in access is outweighed by some interest the city has in non-disclosure. The consent, or lack of consent, of a person who is the author, or the subject of the records is not relevant to the determination of whether or not such public records are released.

Mr. Greer,

The City of Winnemucca ("City") received an email from you on May 12, 2025, with the following inquiry: "What are Winnemucca's special election rules? I want to get this adult entertainment zoning issue on the ballot as soon as possible for a special election."

Your question appears to be a question seeking legal advice. This office does not give legal advice.

The City by law responds to requests for public records, but there is no similar law requirement requiring responses to requests for information; however, if the City is aware of where or how information may be accessed, the City may share that knowledge with a member of the public. Your inquiry did not specify a record you are requesting. To the extent that your inquiry could be construed as a request for a public record, you are advised that the laws of the state of Nevada and the city of Winnemucca are available to the public for inspection at no charge from many sources, including public libraries, the Nevada State Library, the Internet and the state of Nevada website.
