

Hello,

I knew that eventually this would come up, and I initially thought that since many of these allegations had already been disproven in the past (this is a situation from around a year and a half ago), that I wouldn't need to respond. However, after seeing the situation unfold after a video by FPS Diesel released - rehashing the situation, many people have begun to promote false allegations (which I do not blame Diesel for), drawn gross conclusions, and have attacked others who've promoted me or collaborated with me. For the sake of objectivity and being concise, any hearsay will not be mentioned in this document.

Regarding the allegations last year, I have never sexually assaulted anyone, Diesel has implied he doesn't believe I was some sort of predator in his original video, and the girl involved said I never sexually assaulted her. Something I'd also like to mention about this situation is the call that is shown between me and "Anne" (the girl involved). In this call that was being recorded without my knowledge, Anne starts the conversation talking about the "hookup" we had, then intentionally changes to an unrelated topic (me picking her up). The actual context of this conversation has been clarified already in the past. On an occasion when we were hanging out, I had picked her up while hugging her. I didn't know this was something she was uncomfortable with. After she asked for me to put her down, she explained she had past trauma related to being lifted up. I had no idea of this, and apologized. She responded saying "It's okay, you didn't know." As I have already shown, she confirmed herself on several occasions that I never sexually assaulted her. Diesel has also cast doubt on the girl and these allegations several times in both videos.

I in no way condone YandereDev's behaviour. I left the project once I learned the full extent of his actions. For context, I had been a fan of Yandere Simulator since I was 11. In late 2019 (when I was 15), I joined the project as a Composer / Production Assistant, slowly working my way up to Lead Composer. I used to look up to YandereDev, we grew close and developed a friendship where I was encouraged to defend him on several occasions (In hindsight, this was probably very inappropriate). Fast-forward to September 2023, these allegations come out, YandereDev lied to me claiming this girl, "Anne," had told him she was of legal age (See below images). Since I considered Alex a friend and had believed he had been misrepresented in the past, I initially believed him. I regret my behaviour in these calls and wish I hadn't jumped to his defense, however it was hard to cope with the fact that someone I looked up to and saw as a friend had done something so heinous. After leaving, I was required to finish music related to contractual obligations, hence music being released after my departure.

Cam...I've got really bad news.

I unwittingly gave someone ammunition to create a "YandereDev is an evil predator who preys on minors" video.

A few weeks ago, a fan began to persistently beg me to have a voice call with them. They reminded me of a friend I made years ago, and I really missed that friend, so I decided to VC with them. This was a huge fucking mistake.

Once I got comfortable with them and I thought I could speak candidly, I started asking questions like, "These days, do highschool girls notice how much money they could make on OnlyFans, and plan to start an OnlyFans even when they turn 18? What about you, are you going to do it?"

Questions like this, taken out of context, make it sound like I'm saying, "I know that I am talking to an underage girl, and I'm trying to convince her to go into porn!"

I'm told that the video is going to be 2 hours long, and I'm certain that it's going to be cut and edited to make me look as bad as possible.

I may need to actually get a lawyer for this one. Worst case scenario, it's reported to the FBI and there's an actual real investigation over it. They seize my computer to collect evidence, etc, and I won't be able to work on the game for months.

This is bad. Really, really bad.

The worst part is that I know a lot of people are going to fall for it 100% and feel that I've completely let them down. You, Yuina, Adolfin, everyone I worked hard to build a good relationship with.

In my situation, what would you start doing, right at this very moment?

I'm sorry I was a little grumpy when you contacted me. I was on calls for hours with people trying to talk to me about this. I was so frustrated and upset that all of this has happened and that he would let his friends down, I probably should've stayed offline.

I want to make a correction to something I said looking back, I did leave the project about a week ago if you weren't aware, when I said I'd support him, I meant I want to make sure he gets away from the game and take time to build himself into a better person, hopefully hands the game off. And gets better

I took a break. I've just been distraught, he was my friend. And while many people thought this wasn't surprising, to me this was. I got to know him well and I thought he grew out of that kind of behavior because he didn't act the same way he did all those years ago. Im still crushed

Again, I'm sorry for how grumpy I acted last week, I was just not feeling good. Extremely crushed by this

I understand you're probably going through a lot right now, so I won't tell you anything that you're probably already thinking.
I'll just say that it's important to keep the right company, and if you have to continually justify keeping said company, perhaps it's not the right company to keep.

I don't plan on keeping him around, I'm really hurt by it all. I just pray he becomes a better person

I'm glad to hear. You deserve better.

Talking about being lied to & explaining why I'm leaving the project -

Alex, I need to be real with you

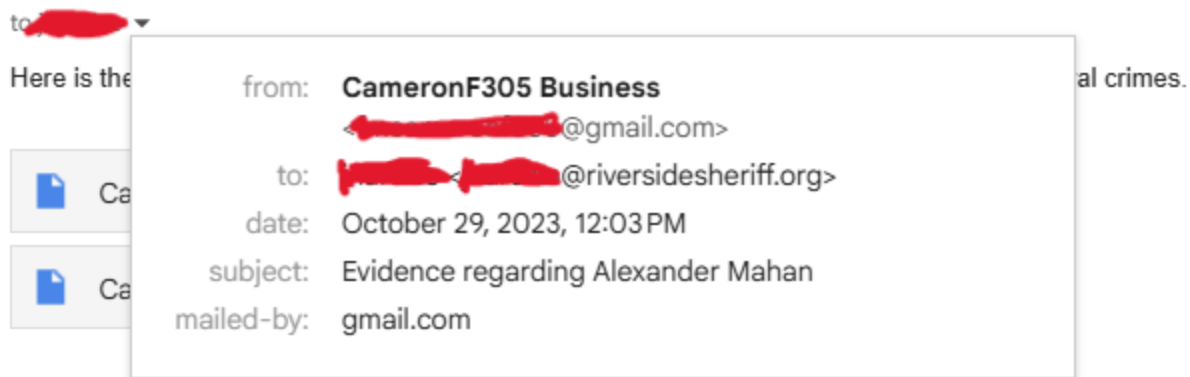

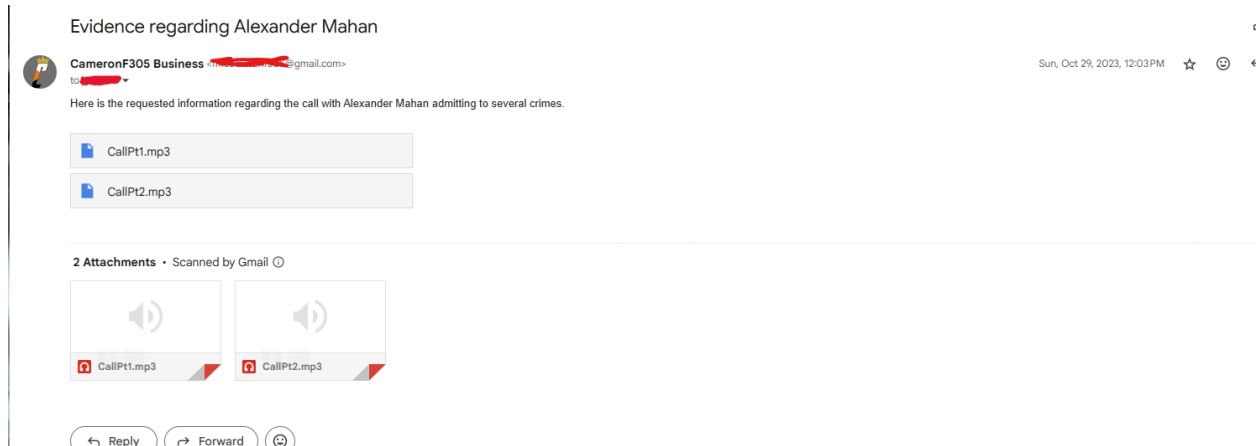

I'm not comfortable working on the project anymore. I still haven't completely processed everything that's happened... but Christ the snap messages- saying "I'll keep it secret" what the hell were you thinking. Then after everything I caught you lying to me. That really hurt. I looked up to you, I was your friend. Last night you cried to me and called me 'your only true friend', I wanna be there for you because of that, but this kinda stuff makes it hard. I can't defend you. You fucked up.

I will have my hand out for help if you need someone, but after this contract is up, I won't be making anymore songs for the game.

That really sucks to hear...

This was all before I learned the extent of his actions. Later in October, I grilled Alex on his behaviour in a call. In this call he revealed he asked for and received CSEM, and that he listened to this minor masturbate. It was at this point where I was completely and utterly disillusioned at what I just heard - someone who I thought was my friend did these things. After letting this information process, a few days later I informed his local police of the admission.

(see email to police on following page)

The reason I didn't volunteer this information to FPS Diesel or anyone for that matter, should be obvious. I'm not going to give an admission of a crime to a drama YouTuber instead of the police, I don't care who they claim to be "connected" with. Diesel himself noted that this situation had been poorly handled and I didn't want to contribute to that. Many months later, since there was no action taken, I did finally give this information to the moderators of r/Osana (linked above) so that at least the public could know.

On this note, one thing I feel is important to point out about this situation is that in his video, Diesel describes that he lied to get information from people, so did I. I don't entirely regret playing nice with Alex to get that admission from him.

With all of this said, this is all I really feel the need to comment on. I'd like to thank all of the people who've reached out with support. Simply put, I'm not going to let something dumb I did at 19, nor a short fling I had as a teenager with a 2.5 year age gap ruin my career. I will be the first to admit that I regret my past work on Yandere Simulator as well as many of my actions while handling the controversy, but I will not accept the notion that I was in any way an accessory to help YandereDev groom someone, or that I did so myself. Thank you for reading.
