

Intro

Hello.

I have read through the document made about Gio completely. I looked at each of the points thoroughly. And based on the points made, I don't believe the allegations of Gio being a manipulative groomer or greedy. Given further information, I am willing to change my mind, but with everything shown in this document, I cannot convince myself that he lied about his autism or his asexuality. All the points made and the removed context I was provided lead me to believe that he is telling the truth about his autism, and that as a result of it made enemies due to his bluntness. The writers of the doc used this bluntness and lack of social awareness and painted it as manipulation. I believe that lack of communication with him about how his interactions made people feel has been used to paint Gio as a groomer, with images purposefully taken out of context to make him seem bad. This allegation doc disregards his issues and attempts to use his acknowledgement of autism to prevent this from being used to explain his behavior, using a massive page count to prevent people from reading into it and seeing the faults in the arguments made.

What follows is an analysis of Gio's behavior and how they tie to symptoms of autism, as well as how the document writers both took statements without context and actively lied about his words in order to paint him negatively, as well as bloating the document with unrelated information knowing most wouldn't read it all and take it at face value. I will also look into claims of SotF being a scam and at Arke's noticeable hostility and hypocrisy.

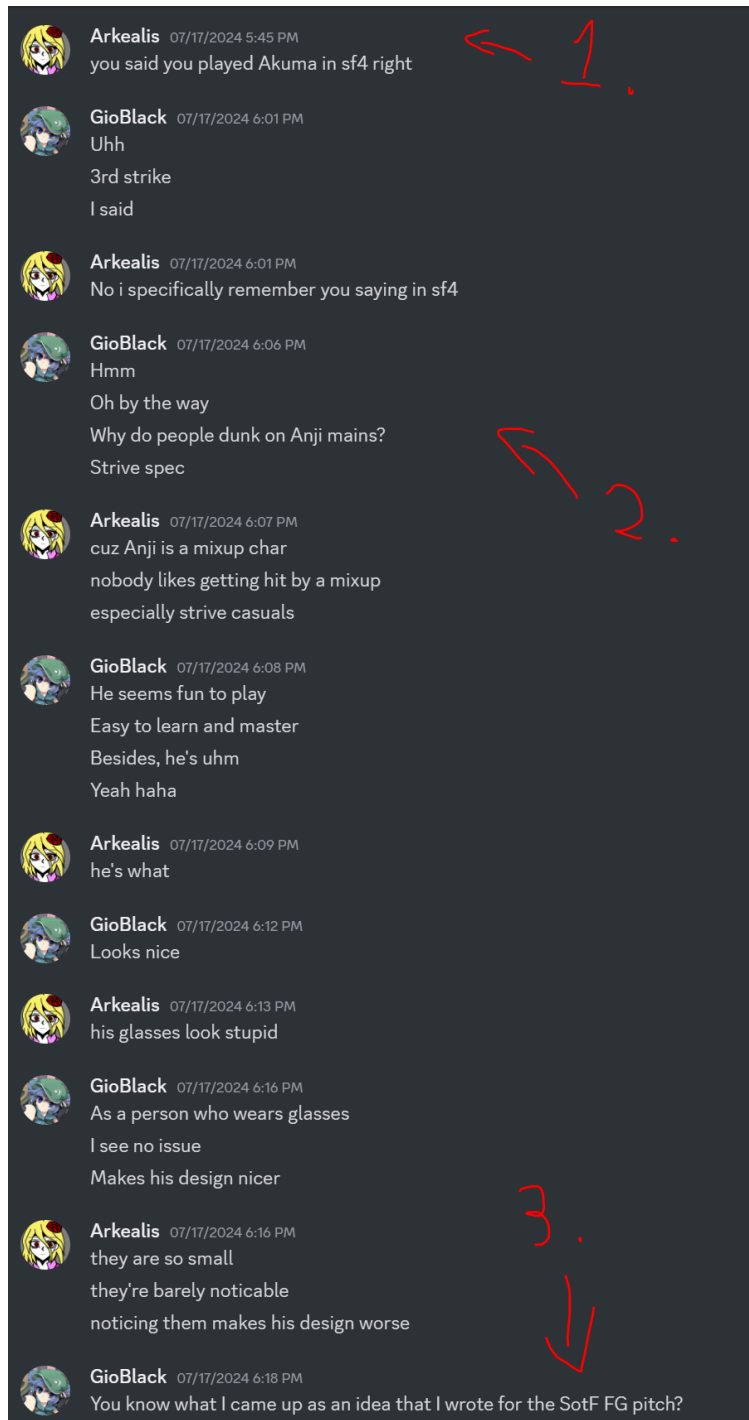

I do not bring up autism as a way to defend Gio. The out-of-context screenshots are the main defense. I only bring it up due to the original document claiming he lied about having it.

I have also linked Gio's document, which he made upon being told about the rough draft and who wrote it, but without being given the draft directly. This document is also seemingly linked in the allegation doc, but with the link broken resulting in it being impossible to read and only serving to make Gio seem guilty.

Denying Gio's Neurodivergency

One of the arguments made that were done to claim he was a manipulator and lying about his autism is "love bombing." To quote the doc directly, he performed in "changing of Subjects mid-conversations to whatever would interest themselves, neglecting other members including during important discussions in an attempt to avoid being discovered". However, contrary to the doc saying that this "largely contradicted when assessing his behavior," this sounds very in line with autistic behavior, specifically in the form of hyperfixation. This is defined as complete absorption into a task or something they already like, to the point of ignoring the world around them. This can be to the point that they completely lack self-awareness. Additionally, people with autism have trouble keeping a single conversation ongoing. The doc shows a direct example of this, citing it as an example of “love bombing.”

“When Gio does fixate on a conversation he enjoys discussing, he will rant and rant and rant for as long as he possibly can, and if anyone tries to assert themselves or interrupt them in any way, he will largely just ignore them. This leads to sessions in the vc where he will speak on about a topic for 20-30 minutes straight and no one else in the vc is saying anything.”

This, as well as Gio constantly needing to ask for clarification, saying statements that are rude for being direct, and inability to talk in a social manner all suggest to me that he does have autism. I can vouch that these are behaviors of autism since I also have it and these behaviors are issues I also have and have friends helping me work on.

Gio has even gone on to acknowledge the claims of hypocrisy, particularly with political subjects, showing that he was already working on it when he was called out. He has shown that he's able to work on these communication issues if he's just told.

One additional note is the claim that he only brings up his good grades to get attention, evidence being that he repeatedly uses the word “excellent.” These statements are false, as not only have they shown me that they were telling the truth, but that “excellent” is the official term in Bulgaria.

With Gio's asexuality, LunaPrism's screenshots appear to have significant context removed. The screenshot claiming that he is lying about being asexual is noticeably acting like a reply to Pokso. This interaction was done as a way to explain cupiosexuality, the desire to have sex in spite of the lack of sexual attraction and a label under the asexual umbrella. According to Gio, the post about "Wakasagihime anatomy" and a later one about Aya anatomy were both done as jokes, both in-between friends and to see how they would react. People who are asexual can joke about sex, even joke about wanting sex despite them not caring for it. It's often done to see how their close friends will react.

In addition, Luna themselves has made jokes about scat fetishes on an alt account, formerly “HINXNXWI”, with “Shiyoko” being the main account, explicitly stating that they are imitating a 4chan member while being only a year younger than Gio, which shows that they know simply talking about sex or joking about it isn’t enough to say it’s something they are actually into.

Additionally, Luna claimed that Gio understood how ERP worked and was lying about it as a sign of not being asexual. What they left out was that they were encouraging GioBlack to speak in a way they claim was “ERP,” a way that Gio themselves showed they weren’t accustomed to.

GioBlack 13.06.2023 3:37

Hehe~

Shiyoko 13.06.2023 3:44

i'm fine thank you

GioBlack 13.06.2023 3:45

Ok sorry if I went too flirty (редактирано)

Anyways

I'll always support you Luna

Since you're quite a dear friend of mine

Ig this feeling is mutual

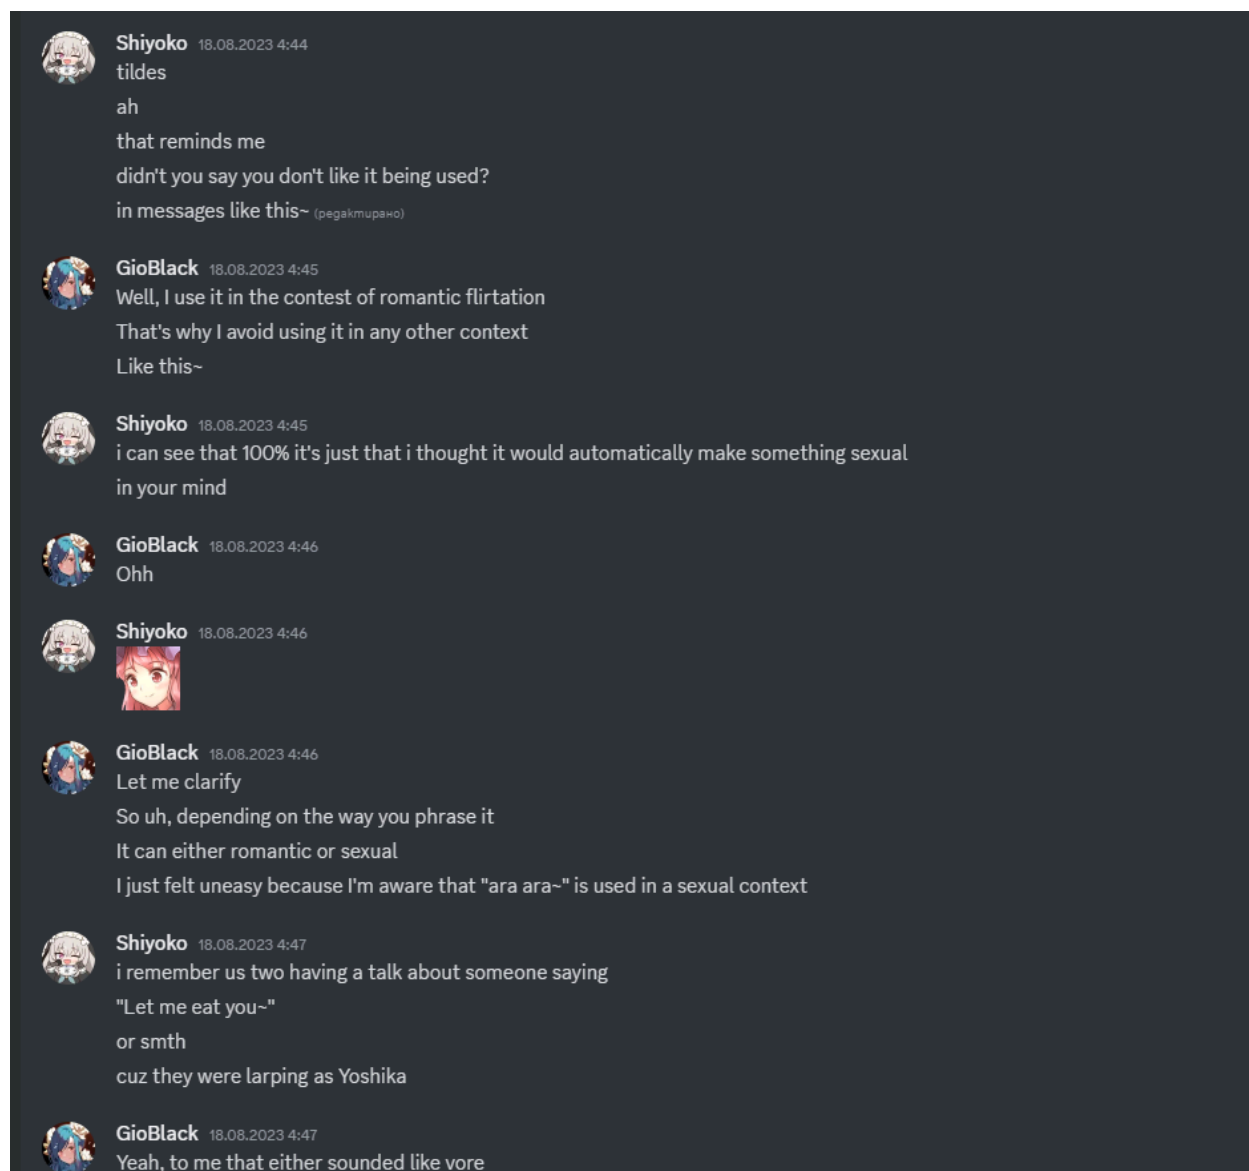

Shiyoko 13.06.2023 3:47

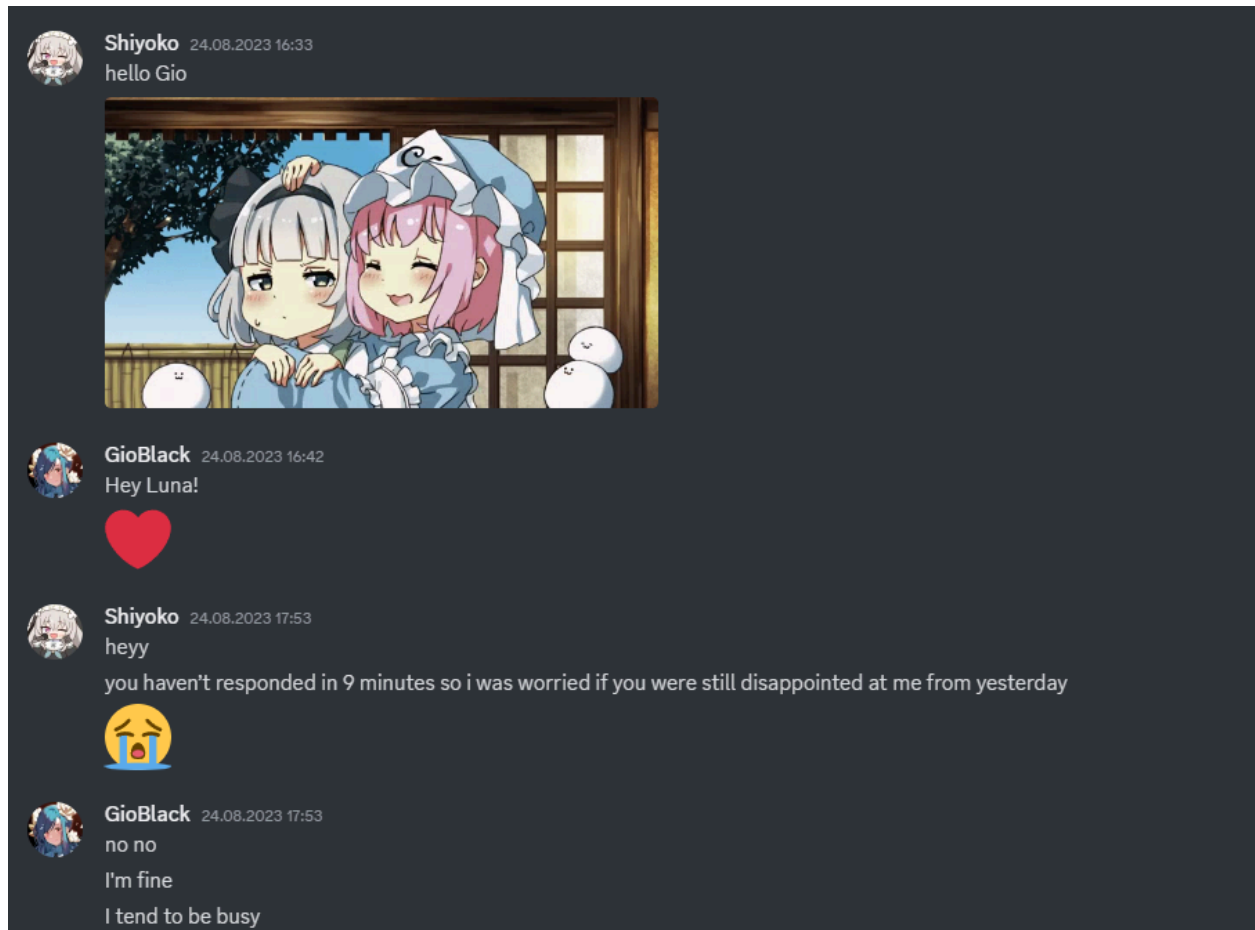

i mean i can't blame you lmao

sometimes i do feel romantic when talking to close friends

although i say sometimes as in it only happened once

Gio assumed it wasn't sexual when LunaPrism used it because, since they considered each other as friends at the time, they assumed that it was part of a flirty joke, with Luna even initiating it more than once.

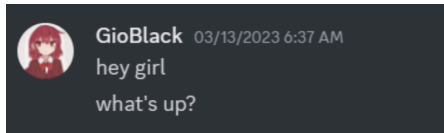

Falsification of Grooming

Gio's behavior shows how much autism impacts his life. While he has seemingly used it as a shield at times, I believe this was in an attempt to help people understand why they needed to be more direct with him. I believe that this inability to communicate has been used to paint Gio in a bad light.

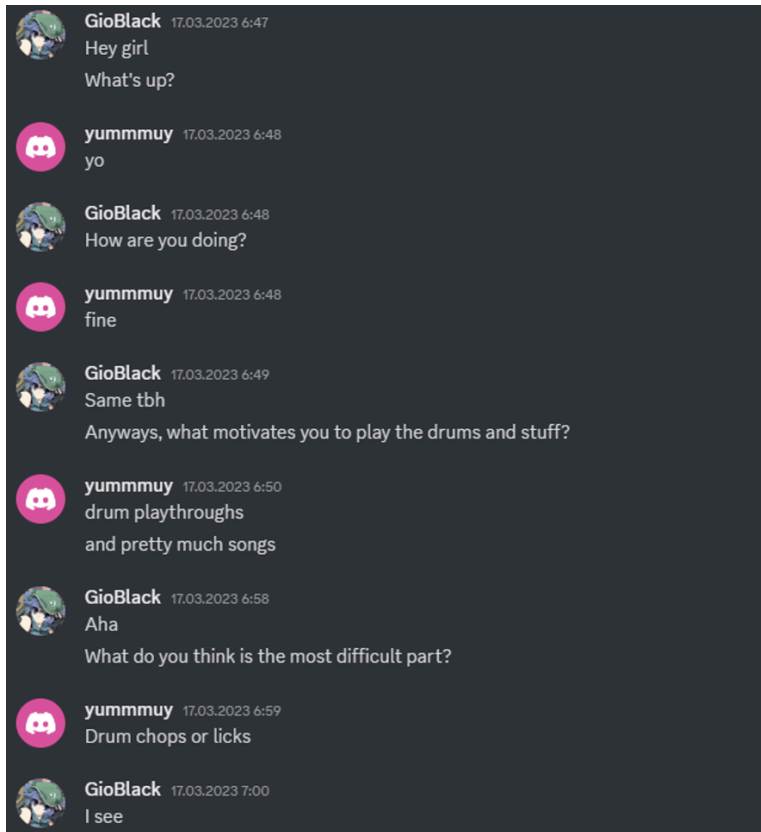

One of the people he communicated with, Yummuy, claims to have been led on in an inappropriate relationship. However, within the doc itself, she confirms she was pretending to be 16-17 when she met Gio, when they were 18 (they were born on the 7th of May, 2004), along with Gio not even engaging in any sort of even mildly provocative interaction. In addition, she used messages without context to paint him in a bad light.

hypocrite, creep and a manipulator. I've faked my age even after I turned 13 because I'd felt like the things I've said that were damning for a kid like me would hurt my other friends' reputation. I was 13 at that time of talking with Gio and I have tried my best to not offend him as he seemed nice.

Page 147 of the allegation doc.

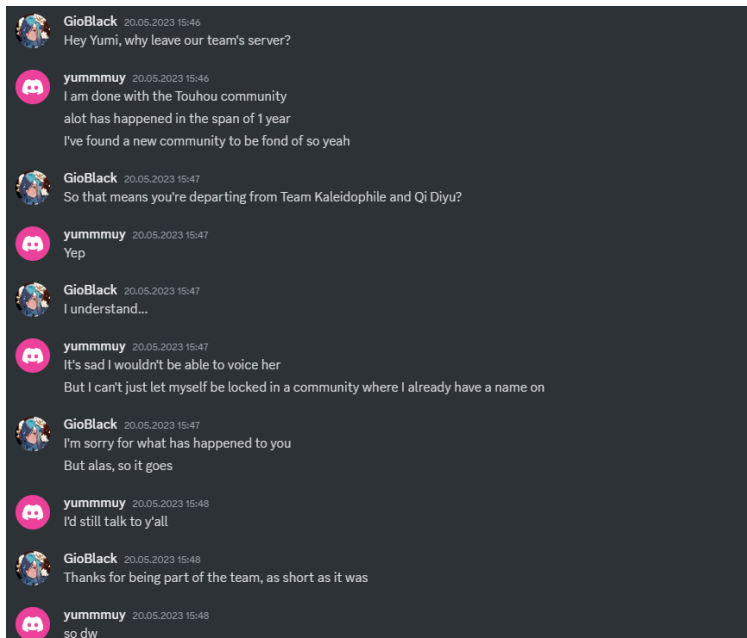

What Yummuy showed

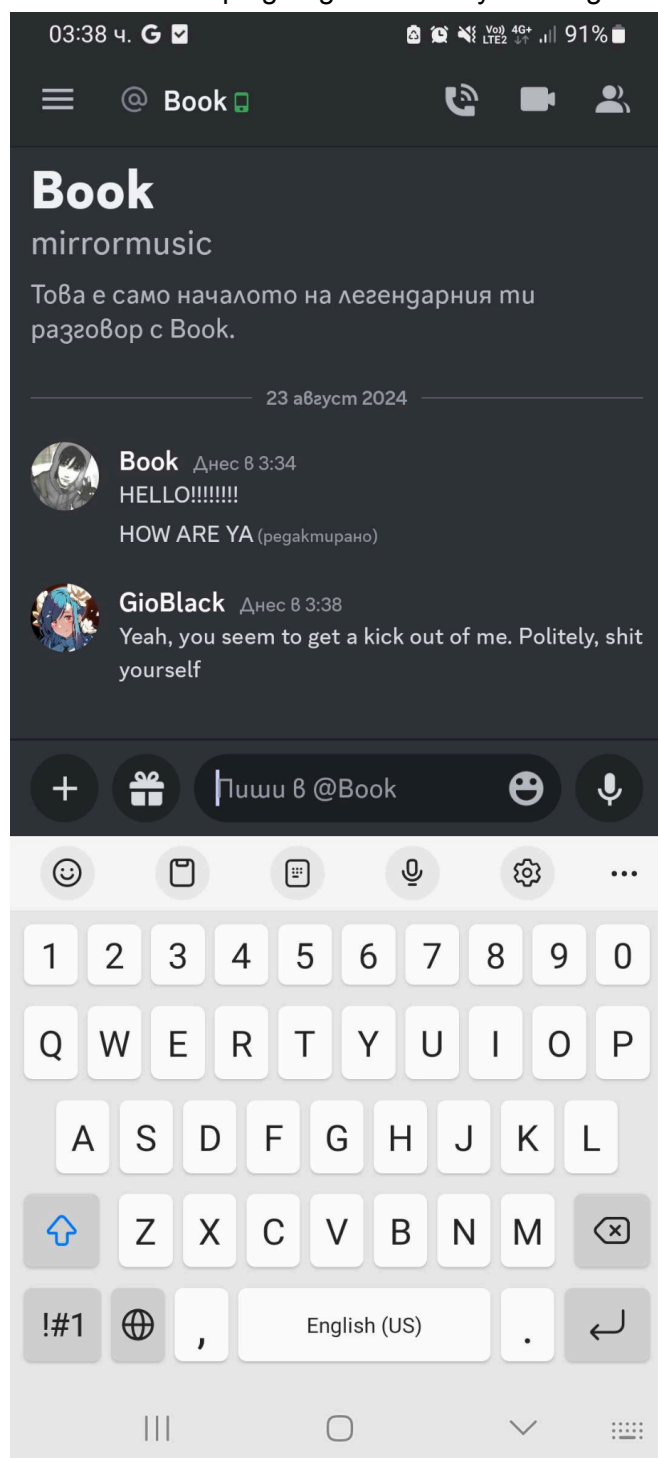

What Gio showed

Some time after Yummuy left the team, we learned it was because of her endorsing the content she condemns, only to then learn from the doc that she lied about herself to get closer. We understand now that Yummuy had admitted to lying about her age and how they recontextualize her interest in these topics, but Gio was not made aware of this until the final version of the allegation doc was posted.

Additionally, in Gio's own response, he showed how he communicates with people. Not only do these interactions seem far tamer than what we're told in the documents, but they also show how he hasn't intentionally done anything to try to hurt anyone who is a minor. This included interactions with Tamarisk and Arkealis, the latter of whom has recently begun a harassment campaign against him by sending his mutuals.

One of the statements by Pokso says at the start that even says he wasn't "groomed" by Gio at all. It does, however, act as the primary source of the claim that Gio's hyperfixation is actually their love bombing.

Pokso (Poksomanbiko):

To begin, I myself was not manipulated by Gio but had been affected by him and forced to go along with his ideals for the time. Gio had constantly projected his beliefs which had eventually partly corrupted my colleagues and friends I poured my heart, soul, and effort into. Gio was originally promoted to Admin from moderator out of bias from LunaPrism (Shiyoko now) as he was one of the only mods even there to begin with back in the early days of the server up until his ban. This bias continued throughout the year as not only did Luna keep a constant attachment with certain individuals simply because they stayed long enough to be recognized by him, Gio practically bombarded Luna with horseshit, totally twisted, spoonfed misinformation particularly about myself behind everyone's back.

Revised quote from an excerpt I wrote when explaining "The Gio Ordeal" from Lunacord: "In Gio's case, Gio used Love Bombing on everyone he thought he could snake that happened to have had the most effect on Luna to the point Luna swore complete loyalty and risked the community itself to obey Gio. The most common cases of Gio's Love Bombing methods were also Changing of Subjects mid-conversations to whatever would interest himself, neglecting other members including during important discussions in an attempt to avoid being discovered—this mostly including: hugging, false-attention, pleading for attention, ambiguous hope tactics, and intimate relationships between certain people to force them to stay connected with him.

This to me once again feels like a massive misinterpretation of his actions, being used to paint Gio in as bad of a light as possible. Even the claim about Gio streaming NSFW cannot be verified, as there is no evidence to support this.

Lying about Gio's Opinions on Law

One of the claims is of Gio "bragging" about his country having a lower age of consent.

When addressing that Bulgaria has a low age of consent, Gio tends to accept and sometimes even boast about it.

Screenshot from the doc.

The messages used point to one specific emoji of Marisa, showing "pride." However, the context here is removed, as it was in a conversation about popular yet problematic ships in the fandom. The name of this emoji is "Marimad," and shows his version of Marisa angry. Along with what he says later, it's clear he's trying to say he's upset at how low the age of consent is in his country.

Note the emoji name

Other allegations of this have been shown. In one of the quote retweets on Twitter, user “@CarnelsCorner” claims that she was hurt by his uncomfortable interactions and that she felt harassed. However, in Gio’s own screenshots, they show that not only did she not tell him she felt uncomfortable, she actively reciprocated the communications and at one point in time sent him an image of real-life animal abuse. The assertion that Carnel was in a relationship with Gio was a misunderstanding on Gio’s part. Apologies for the error. That defense was used because Carnel has claimed Gio was a creep using a part of a conversation they had, removing the prior sections that had caused Gio to look creepy.

Hi, I don't usually make these kinds of posts and I don't expect to make more in the future, but there is a specific individual named Gio who has had a past of manipulating people and grooming minors. (1)

Original Doc Writer Hypocrisy

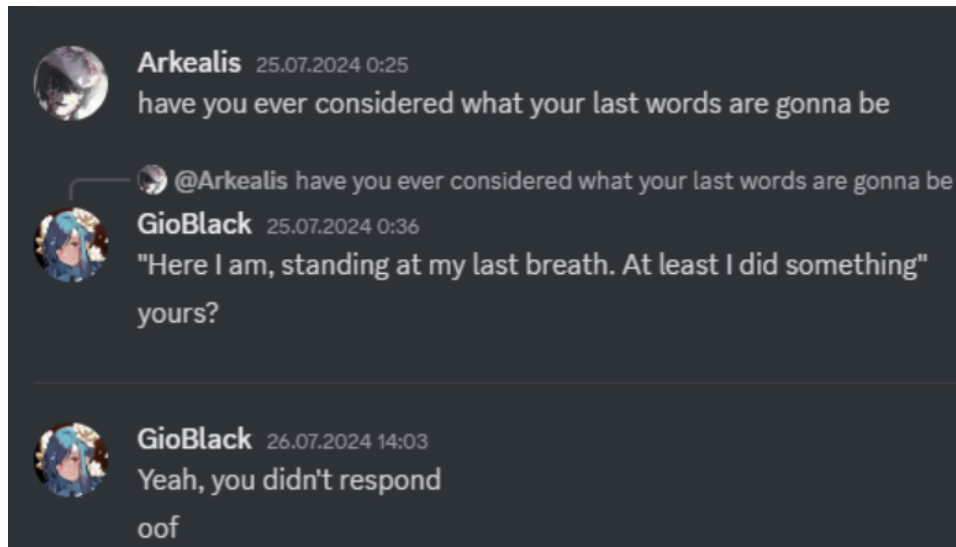

The way the writer of this document talks about Gio doesn't appear to be doing so to save other people who were hurt. The wording used, combined with over 40 pages of the doc being dedicated to Gio “posing” in fandoms, suggest that this person has it actively out for Gio, hoping to bring them down.

the first place. On UWOM, a certain individual responded to Gio after he complained about an honestly quite grieving situation of catastrophic proportions in which all of his absolutely fantastic and quite simply amazing soundfont instrument covers of already existing songs were lost when his brother had deleted FL Studio from his laptop. Gio, believing that this individual

Here, he talks about Third Strike again, and his takes about Yang are simply just incorrect.

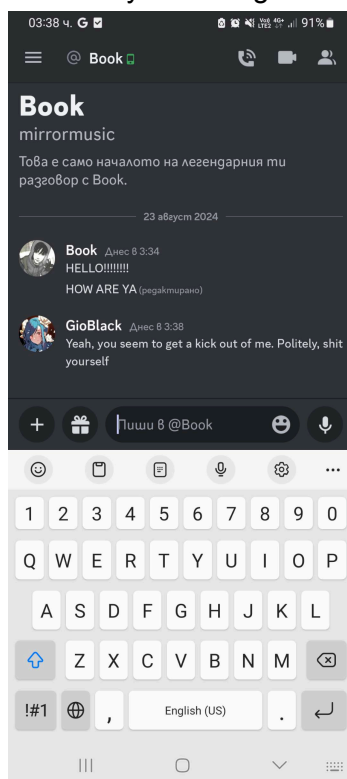

One particular statement made to Gio before releasing the doc was how they were even tipped off as to who was writing it.

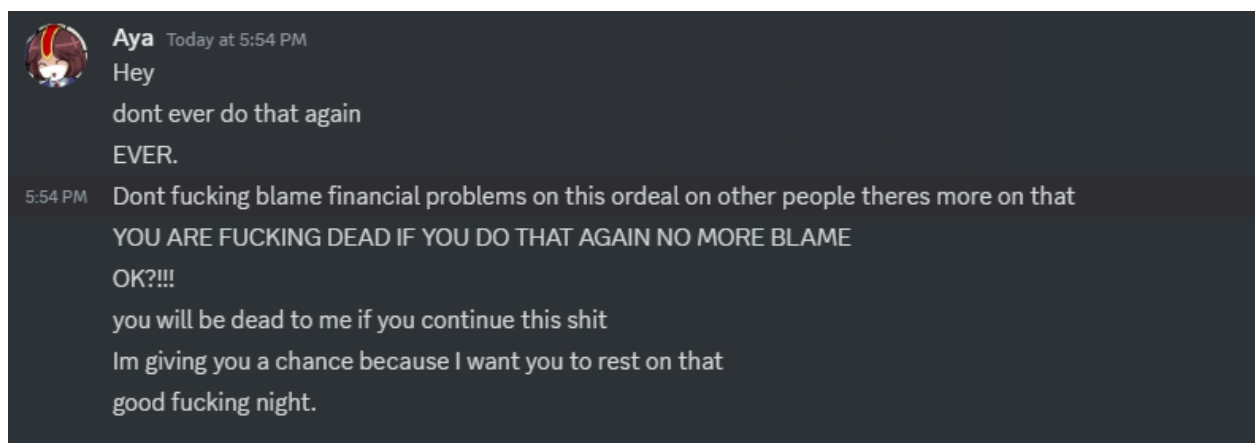

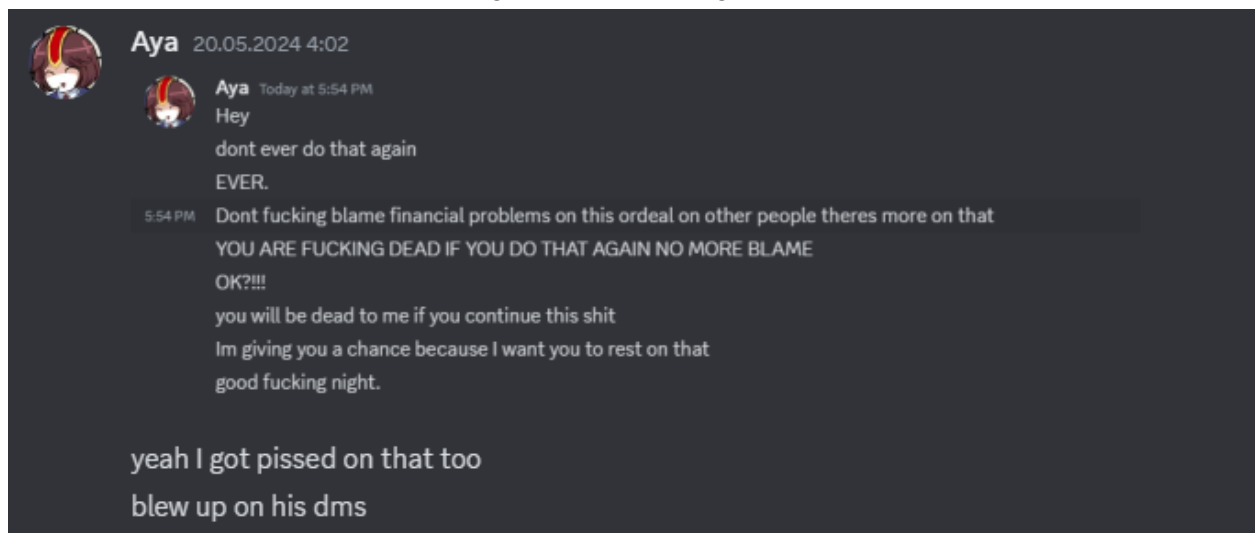

This timing suggests that Arke wanted to mock Gio, to try to show some sense of superiority. Not like someone who was hurt, but as someone who thinks they can get away with ruining someone's life.

This is also why Gio knew the document mentioned Yummuy and Tamarisk, as he was informed by someone shown the rough draft that they were named as "victims." Along with Arke sending harassment over to Gio, this suggests that he intended to scare Gio off the internet by removing his ability to defend himself and make him feel watched.

Additionally, Arkealis has shown hypocrisy in calling Gio racist. He calls out Gio over learning the countries people are from and doing things like using their country's way of saying “hello,” something which someone with autism might not understand can be harmful if not told directly. However, Arkealis has been called out by Aya to Gio for making bigoted statements about people from India in LA, blaming them for causing financial troubles in VC.

Take note of the date being in May of this year, about 3 months before he accused Gio. This evidence feels far more substantial than any of Arke’s claims of grooming with no evidence.

SotF is a FREE-TO-VIEW PROJECT

One more thing to acknowledge is the claim that Spirit of the Future is a scam. I can personally attest that it is not. I was the one who created the group chat intended to get artists together to work on the manga. None of the artists expressed any grievances, with only one of them taking issue with being asked to practice the Mega Man Zero art style to the doc writer. None of these grievances were expressed to us.

Additionally, the lead artist has been using their time to focus on school. We have since revised the workload to get more artists working together.

No Patreon was ever made. There was no intent to until Spirit of the Future was already published. These kinds of projects take time, and we’re sorry for not finishing it faster. Additionally, the claims of Gio enforcing a communist-type of pay are completely falsified. Gio was not in charge of finances, as he asked me to do it, with my goal being to work with everyone involved to split everything based on their contributions.

GioBlack 01/11/2024 2:11 AM

Well in regards to the spread of the fan-manga and the way we could sell it
I've already made you the financial manager of the team, which includes the Patreon page in the future

Ah, I see

I do want to compensate the people who left with some cash when the first one releases, before then dividing based on who is still working

GioBlack 01/11/2024 2:15 AM

Sounds fair

About to start coloring, but I don't know how Aya colors

This art is only not finished yet as a result of a computer bricking, requiring it be restarted.

We would like to apologize for the people waiting. We did not anticipate all that happened. And we apologize to Aya and Okuu, the former for making her feel like she wasn't contributing to the project, and the latter for pressuring them to learn an art style.

In Summary

Gio appears to have some degree of autism, as so many of his actions align with symptoms despite the claims of the allegations. This inability to interact properly as well as internal troubles with his team and active lying about what his words mean were all used to try to paint Gio as a groomer and tear down his reputation by someone who's own actions show their own form of manipulation and racism that he claims to be against. These were disguised with unrelated statements put into the doc simply to make it as long as possible. I am open to hearing how other people have interacted with him, but with everything that I have seen, I firmly believe in Gio's innocence.

In case you haven't read it, I have also linked Gio's response, made after he was told of the writers but before he had a chance to even read the rough or complete draft.
