

bold = tl;dr/very important statements

Explaining What's Wrong With the Toxicity

hey guys, blend here. i've been seeing a bunch of hate and toxicity thrown around the legacy of KToH. this is just my opinion, and nothing more. i don't want to cause more drama in doing this, i just want to make things right. this is not an "exposal" script nor am i picking sides, i'm just proving a point that JToH and OI:R can coexist. but first, there are some things in both JToH and OI:R's communities that absolutely need to be cleared up, and i want to be here for it. now, by no means am i enemies with jupiter nor obren, i just want to get things out and give people the opportunity to see what is wrong and how we can make it right.

it's not a necessity to hold grudges against people because of things they've done in the past. the main mindset people have when holding grudges against people is for things they've done, things they will do or things that they've been accused of doing. in this case, obren is holding grudges on many, MANY people because of the things that resulted in the present that everyone knows. the main person obren wants to pin his blames on is awes; awes has been nicknamed the cause of 3/3, a vindictive dictator and so many other things that are quite undeserving. awes may have done some wrong things in the past, but it's been too many times since he has acknowledged that and apologized for it. awes only wants to make things better, but obren and the people that side with him keep pushing awes down for something that happened 4 months ago. another person that obren blames for 3/3 is jupiter. obren believes that jupiter stole KToH and reformed it into his own game with no recollection of obren at all. what obren doesn't know is that jupiter actually feels remorse for him and feels as if the things that obren claims jupiter has done, he actually did. jupiter, like many of the other JToH staff, feel bad for obren and want to help him. obren has tried and tried again to attack, sabotage and invade JToH, by things like making everyone in a server admin, the memorial day sale and verbal attacks made on his twitter. and as a result of this, obren should probably stop contradicting himself whenever he has impulses and feels as if he should take action against something. exactly 1 month ago, the JToH staff team had a civil and formal discussion with obren where we mostly talked about obren's problems and how we can solve them. obren spilled out his inner emotions for the countless-th time and the staff team -- orbaz, vincent, jupiter, stalled, awes and i -- all reached out to help him and treat him right and how we should rebuild ourselves to make a community the best it can possibly be. in the beginning of the discussion, obren tried to make things right for himself by trying to make amends with the people in the JToH community that HE hates. obren only wanted what he desired and what HE wanted the game to be. but in the end, after a long period of talking and connecting, obren realized that he is at fault for everything he's done to destroy JToH and apologized.

ObrenTune 06/03/2019
 Let me explain my part Lets go back to 3/3
 And work our way up Ill go first

Epsilon 06/03/2019
 Fine, tell us.

ObrenTune 06/03/2019
 And let me fucking talk until you are given permission too K
 So
 On 3/3
 I wanted to hold a meeting with the majority of the staff team regarding positions and placement
 Such as demotions and removals
 I wasn't supposed to be on my computer at the time but I sacrificed time to do so
 But I wanted to talk to my community Staff team*
 And it was a pretty long discussion and I was short on temper at the time because i was in fear of getting caught and losing power in talking to people via computer
 I wanted to make sure that the staff team was mainly ok with this and that all demotions and removals were meant with good intention Awes wasnt there at the time in the vc
 Or the discussion
 After we agreed that the discussion was over Awes comes in and starts poking at me over wesleys demotion and if it was justified or not I didn't want to talk about it as it was more of a personal reason and I didnt want to discuss it
 But he kept pushing me for 10 minutes over and over And I was getting upset over it And I wanted to get away from him because i was still under stress at the time And I wanted to part myself as far away from him as possible
 So i said if he mentions the wesley discussion one more time I would ban him because i was done
 I couldn't deal with it because i was done talking and wanted the discussion to end on a good note
 So he brought it up once more and so then I banned him
 So i could get away from him
 Then I am not sure who brought him back and put him back on the staff team
 But I lost my shit as my request was not fully respected And then it gets blurry here
 One by one i think people started turning on me who were friends with awes
 And i felt really betrayed

So then after the constant fighting back I clarified with Jupiter if he wanted the game or not about 4 times
 So i could have a peaceful transfer of power
 As I didnt want to deal with everyone Related to KTOH
 Jupiter kept denying my request
 So the I closed down the game And deleted the server
 As I wanted to be done with everything related to KToH
 So I didn't have to deal with this and the community to be gone for good so I wouldn't have backlash
 And I could return to my other part of my life in peace I went offline and no one bothered to contact me if I was ok or not During the time I was offline Jupiter and the old developers who had access to KToH previously Took the game saves without my consent
 And compiled it all into one game
 Known as JToH
 Everything was copied including icons and gfx
 I wasnt aware of this at the time
 And when I rejoined the other server Like a few days after I was trying to see what was going on And all I was greeted with was a wave of hate And I was asking jupiter at the time if he could do anything about it Even some of the moderators sat there and watched me get murdered by words and hate in the general chat
 I went into jupiter dms and asked him if he could help me

He doesnt say anything about what was happening and just asks for the game files Same thing in the roblox staff group Just asked for game files
I felt utterly betrayed as he never really brought the game file taking to my attention or what the over developers were doing with them
And I just felt shameful and helpless Like I lost everything
And I grew a hate as I wanted respect from the people I once trusted And that hate grew and grew
And I saw that Jupiter eventually started making money off of my game
And he would only come to my personal server just to show what he bought with the game money
It just hurt me mentally even more
And it sucked that I was left with a hate for the community
It twisted me mentally and I couldn't help myself I had no shoulder to lean on for comfort or to back me up So I have made numerous attempts to shutdown the game and the community because i felt shut out by those who originally cared for me I didn't want to see my community act like this And I kept seeing that people were leaving and most of the messages regarding those were pinned
And it was just saddening
So i kept doing all I could to end the community or to drive it out of business so I didnt want to see more people go through it My one priority all along was to make sure the community was happy
If it was happy, I was happy
And i regret doing these because all attempts have failed and made me look bad During my time gone, I wanted to redeem myself as a good person who actually ment a thing in that community once more
So I developed a talent in art

So I could have something to feel happy about and that would benefit others Anyway just seeing all of the shutting out and ignoring me getting murdered by hate drove me into this madness Everyday leading up to this point builds a mental insanity and hate towards JToH Leaving me to take it down And regarding those tweets
I was wanting to see if Jupiter really did it for the community Or if he wanted it for its money
And on top of awes being HoS
That drove me mad too
That is why I wanted his position removed because he is party why i snapped and took down KToH
And just seeing him given a free role like that also made me insane
I didn't like to see the person in plwer who made me insane
And delete the game
In all honesty if Jupiter would have said yes, asked if I was ok, did his best to assure his staff team and himself to make sure I didnt get flamed or murdered in the general chat, the people I deeply dislike in power due to driving me mad, and seeing him care for the community and look out for it mostly.
None of this would have happened and we wouldn't be here.
Anyway that is all I have to say, that is my honest part of the story.

obren was deeply hurt by the crude comments he got within joining the JToH server, but Jupiter totally left him in the dark when he asked for help and guidance. and with that, obren decided that he would totally hate jupiter for everything that he's done to contribute to the game after the events of 3/3, because jupiter said nothing or did nothing to indicate that he wants to help obren whilst face-to-face with him. now, jupiter should not be blamed for this, his mentality is forced to be this way because of his autism. many other people in the staff team, such as orbaz, also have autism, but can communicate pretty well. however, jupiter has a type of autism that gives him communication issues. jupiter cannot choose to not talk to anyone if he simply has nothing to say, he thinks differently than most people in JToH and ultimately has some issues with communicating with people like obren. with that, the most important thing to take note of jupiter's autism is that, when he can't think of something to say, he doesn't say anything at all. jupiter's autism gives him the mentality to have some different ways of communication, which makes it difficult in many situations, like conversation or even development of JToH, PSE, PA and all his other projects. this makes it hard for jupiter to keep up in conversation with serious and real issues, like the discussions with obren and other people that may have the same problems as him. now, back to the june discussion (what we will call it for now)

Awes2 06/03/2019

alright its okay

so

you mentioned how "friends of awes" retaliated upon my behalf if "friends of awes" meant the entirety of the staff team and the community, then you'd be correct these werent biased people that were friends with me vouching upon invalid reasoning this was the entire staff team among the community being upset about a clearly unjust decision that you made and you need to accept that it was completely understandable for them to do so as this is the inevitable result of the course of action you took with your emotional impulse now, im not sure what happened inbetween that time with you and jupiter but i think you guys clarified it a bit above

now

you mentioned that later on you had rejoined and been greeted by what you quoted

"a wave of hate"

have you ever took the time to think about WHY people would act this way?

why they would be upset with you?

why they would not want you welcome?

because you took everything that this community had the community, the discord, the game all of it was gone

having to rebuild ourselves up from scratch it doesnt seem you take much time to look about the struggles that we've had to go through but rather stuck questioning about why the community and everyone still dislikes you due to lack of self-awareness and reflection you grew hate because you wanted the respect from the people you once trusted but how do you plan on achieving that respect after how much youve brought us down?

instead of reflecting on it you just decided to have a growing ball of hatred due to being unable to come to terms with everything or atleast

not taking the time to clearly think out what is TRULY involved with everything you had "no shoulder to lean on for comfort or to back me up" because you gave up everyone that provided you with that comfort and the shoulders to lean on in the first place so in doing so, you decided to shutdown the game with any possible attempts that you could because yourself felt shut out from those who originally cared for you now, how is trying to shutdown the game, repeating the actions that got you into this position in the first place, supposed to make the people not shut out from you and for them to return back and care for you?

it is the equivalent to whipping your child because you deprive them of food if your one priority was to make the community happy, and if it really were the case that if the community was happy, you were happy

then you wouldnt have done this in the first place awes talked with obren a lot about what he is doing to try to kill JToH, and how he can stop doing that and make amends; and it worked for the most part. everyone in the discussion quickly realized that obren simply had the wrong mentality for all of this; he took down the entire game and only wanted respect from the people that he pushed away, which was wrong of him to do.

obren realized what he did was wrong and tried to apologize, but left the server shortly after. obren also seemingly forgot about this discussion, because he, to this day, still continues to hate JToH and what its legacy is trying to accomplish. however, obren stated that he may co-own JToH with jupiter and contribute alongside the community and staff to make it better than people could imagine. after leaving the server where the june discussion happened, obren's mindset seemingly changed. obren has made no more attempts to sabotage JToH as of the date of this document being written, but people fear that he will in the future. he also realized that obren could have competition against JToH if obren made a game similar to the likes of it. obren realized how much popularity and how much of the JToH community he could steal back; and with that, obren reopens KToH and rebrands it as "Obren's Inferno: Reborn".

many people liked the idea of KToH coming back, with the original owner and original mentality of KToH. as a result of that, people migrated from JToH to OI:R in hopes of reliving the moments of playing a cool, small, nostalgic, vanilla-style game. although, with the start of OI:R, obren still didn't want to deal with the drama, toxicity and hatred in JToH towards himself. it only took a few days for his mindset to change and for him to go back to his old and selfish ways. an example of this is a short and brief announcement obren made to try and end the hate between JToH and the newly made OI:R, obren ended up deleting this announcement and going back to his old mindset. and with people believing the mentality of obren, people seem to believe that JToH is the cause of all our problems -- when in reality, it's the opposite. people seem to believe that jupiter and his staff team are the ones causing all the problems that led to obren acting this way. but, if you do a small background check of OI:R and obren, you will find that obren is the one who decided to sabotage JToH and everything it stands for, including a private discussion with his friends and associates on how to kill the game for good. some plans to kill JToH included giving admin to people on his alt, admin abusing by himself, the memorial day sale (making every gamepass 1 robux), or even attempting to bot the game and shut it down. obren also has many, many impulses on his own terms to try to get back at the server or people in his own servers as well. just today, obren banned two people (coates and graceful) because they were asking about franco's ban, seemingly while obren didn't want to deal with his own actions. if you don't know, franco was banned because he lied about something he did; he lied about having sex with his girlfriend, visible below.

franco lied about himself

having sex with his girlfriend (who is 16) for an unknown reason. people seem to think that it was so he could boast or boost his ego or something. but the point is, this is perfectly normal depending on where you live, because it's consensual, but obren had none of it. obren proceeded to indirectly call franco a child predator and banned him from OI:R. obren made it seem so much worse than it actually was, and so i was confused as to why franco was banned in the first place. obren may take some statements or comments wrong which causes him to have impulses, therefore holding the aforementioned grudges on people. nobody really knows about the discussions that obren has had with the JToH community, because obren himself chooses to forget about them all. this causes both OI:R and JToH to be toxic towards each other, not only because OI:R was brought back to compete against JToH, but because both communities have no idea about the times obren has brushed JToH off his shoulders. the community has been left in the dark for every staff interaction including obren and jupiter, solely because of grudges. obren would not like to believe that jupiter is a good person because he won't like to believe that his current beliefs are wrong. obren has mixed feelings about the JToH community -- some days he tolerates it, but most days he hates it with all of his guts. this is no different in the OI:R server; there are some people who believe that there is still good in the two communities, but most people just follow obren's footsteps and unnecessarily hate on JToH. everyday, there is so much hate towards each game that is inescapable and unhealthy for each and every person involved. the people who have good intentions are in extremely small groups, these people believe that the two communities can co-exist. although, some people may say, “they can co-exist, but it doesn’t mean that they should,” which i believe to be absolutely false. and many things, like the june discussion, and even anonymous staff attempts to help obren on his own, are thought of as “obstacles” to obren and what he wants OI:R to be.

babyboom217 Last Sunday at 9:35 PM

Okay so this may end up being very controversial but I think it needs to be done at some point to clear the air between us and jtoh. My complaint is that both servers for the most part want peace between each other but there is still a lot of distrust between both. My idea to maybe help solve this is to have either Obren (since he is the owner of the discord) or an elected representative of this server go to jtoh. And ask if we could maybe say something in a channel to set the record straight that there are no bad feeling towards jtoh. And we would like to see the game succeed. Obviously I can't guarantee that jtoh. Will let us do this but i believe that asking would do no harm and would at least send a message that we are trying to cooperate and work together. In this speech of sorts there would be some main points to touch on. Below I will describe some ideas to talk about but obviously if the server was to do this we would need to decide as a whole. One big thing we would need to explain is the filter in our server. Many people in the jtoh. server see it as a fuck you, but we should explain that the idea behind it is actually to attempt to decrease bad talk about both games. Another thing to address would be that we are not elitist and do NOT believe that oir is objectively better and jtoh. Is trash. We are just a group of people that find the game the best at its most simple, and we want to create a game that follows that spirit. In fact, many of us here also play and enjoy jtoh. One more thing we should talk about is that we do not endorse the bullying or harassing of the jtoh. Game or discord, and anyone doing so is acting alone and is not following Obren or the rest of the servers wishes. My hope is that doing this will help create peace between both the discords and the games and we can work towards a better future for all. I hope this is seriously read and considered because it took a hella long time to type into my phone.

people in OI:R also want the unnecessary drama and toxicity to end, but people in JToH may ignore it and keep the flame running. which is the thing; keeping drama going but saying you want it to end is like pouring lava into a bonfire. by no means are you helping or contributing to help stop the hate. but instead, i can try to provide some solutions so that we can help to stop the hate between these two good communities.

Explaining How We Can Solve It in any situation should hatred and toxicity be avoided, because toxicity would inevitably seal the fate of a community and destroy whatever legacy it has built. here are some basic and constructive reasons how you can easily avoid toxicity and keep a good community great.

- provide a legitimate and construct reason to genuinely hate on somebody it's not fair to hate on someone just because you want to “go with the flow” or “you have nothing better to do”. unless you have a perfectly good reason to not like somebody, NOT including grudges, opinion or judgmental reasons, DO NOT hate on somebody. i'm not encouraging anybody to hate on anyone, this reason is just so you don't hate on anybody for no reason.

- double-check yourself and think about what you want to say before actually saying it people always blindly hate others and often regret what they say later on in life. it's always good to keep in mind what you're about to say to somebody and ask yourself, “is it worth my time? will it affect me later on? am i going to regret saying this?” just so that you can remember not to waste your time on anybody if you don't truly mean what you wanna say.

- don't let hate manifest itself inside of your goodwill and corrupt your mindset to something unrecognizable to your previous self a good example of this happening is the death of etika. etika had mental issues that had to do with youtube and how much it changed his mindset to focus on a singular community. etika was no longer self-conscious and only worried about his fans, which made his fans worried about him. it's extremely unhealthy in ANY situation to let hate grow inside you and take over your being, whether you're in etika's place, obren's place, jupiter's place or anybody's place.

- be aware of the person that you are talking to and make sure that it doesn't affect THEM rather than yourself make sure you know who you're talking to all the time, even if you're spreading hate and toxicity to that person. you may not know that they are dealing with stress from a personal issue, a social issue or any type of problem that could lead them to have a bad mentality and harm themselves. it's not worth it to talk to someone with such a horrible demeanor without knowing what they might do to themselves if you say what you want to say to them.

- don't take out your aggression on somebody unless they're actually trying to do something wrong or they have done something wrong

all the hate towards obren in JToH, and towards jupiter in OI:R is entirely unnecessary because, like i have said before, nobody really knows why we're hating on either. the only reasons to hate on obren or jupiter are only available to staff members and NOT regular verified people. therefore, people are only hating on both for their past actions and not the things that they may have done or will do. unless you know why you're going to hate on somebody, don't hate on them.

- don't be petty or dwell on the past when you want to hate on somebody it's always a bad thing to bring up the past when you're hating on somebody, because it shows the type of person you are. people who bring up the past or any past action that has occurred to make a situation like it is are only people who haven't been taught to forgive and forget; basically, these people don't want to believe that others can change and still hate somebody for something they did (for example) 10 months ago. if you're one of these people, don't waste your time on hating somebody for something they did a long time ago, just forgive them and move on.

- try to understand a situation and get as much context to back it up as possible, don't blindly hate anybody walking into a random room with a blindfold on is almost always dangerous, so it's the same thing with hating something or someone without fully understanding what they say, mean or do. not knowing the context of a situation is crucial in some situations, because somebody could imply something, but the issue itself is the polar opposite of what they are trying to say. it's better to learn something rather than believe something.

- stand your ground when you have an opinion on something, don't change it because somebody else changes it it's natural to put your trust in somebody, but if you want to keep your word on something, keep it. it's sacrilegious to promise something and then change it because the person you trust in (obren or jupiter) changes their promises. for example, don't like JToH and then hate it with all of your might SOLELY for the reason that you trust obren's actions. contradicting yourself is not only lucrative, but downright stupid.

- don't blame anybody if they have a mental illness or a disorder that blocks them from making civil and agreeable decisions

now, the JToH/OI:R situation is different, because jupiter is autistic and obren has asperger's, but in a normal situation, you shouldn't be judging anybody because they have a mental illness. it's stupid to do that and most of the time it has no reasoning or backup to anything you want to believe about it. losing your trust in somebody because they are mentally challenged is extremely witty in some situations. for example, hating stephen hawking only because he is disabled.

- as a result of this document, refrain from hating on obren and/or jupiter as much as possible, with all the new information you learned about them while obren and jupiter may have done some bad things in the past, it gives you no reason to hate on them currently. they are human beings and deserved to be acknowledged as a human being. inferiority is not a virtue in any situation and should not be looked at as a strength. and as much as you want to let out your emotions on obren/jupiter for something they did, keep it to yourself and go somewhere else if you really need to take out your aggression on somebody.

- just try to be as friendly as you possibly can to everyone you come across this doesn't have to apply to obren or jupiter, but anyone that you choose to talk to. you may or may not like it, but it's always nice to put on a smile when talking to someone, especially digitally. in a place where people's opinions are so influential and important to the age demographic of communities like roblox, spreading hate could be very sensitive to people you meet. all in all, it's just not worth your time to continuously hate on people when it's harmful to people, or even yourself.

just to restate, this is all my opinion and nothing else. if you have fully read this document, i hope you have gained some common sense and can actually, genuinely contribute to make sure that JToH and OI:R can truly coexist.