Ok here i will be demonstrating all the points that Logan has made, giving both the context and my views on them. I may not be a mod or staff, but I believe im smart enough to figure it out on my own. Just keep in the back of your mind that both Jupiter and Awes wish to revert jtoh to the classic more nostalgic obbies like it was in rings 1-3.

T Hello guys, Logan_ISL here. I would like to talk about the explanation of the poll I made on the 14th, that caused a ton of drama inside of the discord and almost led to my demotion. There is currently a new rule that was made saying that people who are not Verified Builder's must ONLY use the official kit but Verified Builders can make custom client objects and ignore this rule. I thought it was insanely unfair so I started a poll in staff-polls to see what everyone thought.

"I want everyone's thoughts. I personally do not like the idea that all that VBs are allowed to use custom client objects and stuff from custom kits yet everyone else cannot. I feel like what will happen in the future is creators won't be "creative enough" because of the lack of objects in V5, to be worthy of "VB." Here's what I think: The VB system is heavily flawed, in my opinion all that VBs should be granted with are the abilities to make citadels and work on big projects for the game, like if CoP and CoTD were to be made. Revert the kit back to V4 with all of its objects and allow custom kit items, to prevent bugs with towers with this. All custom kit items should be reviewed by curators to make sure they're not buggy.

This poll, passed. The staff agreed that voted on this with a vote of 7 to 2. The 2 people who disagreed?

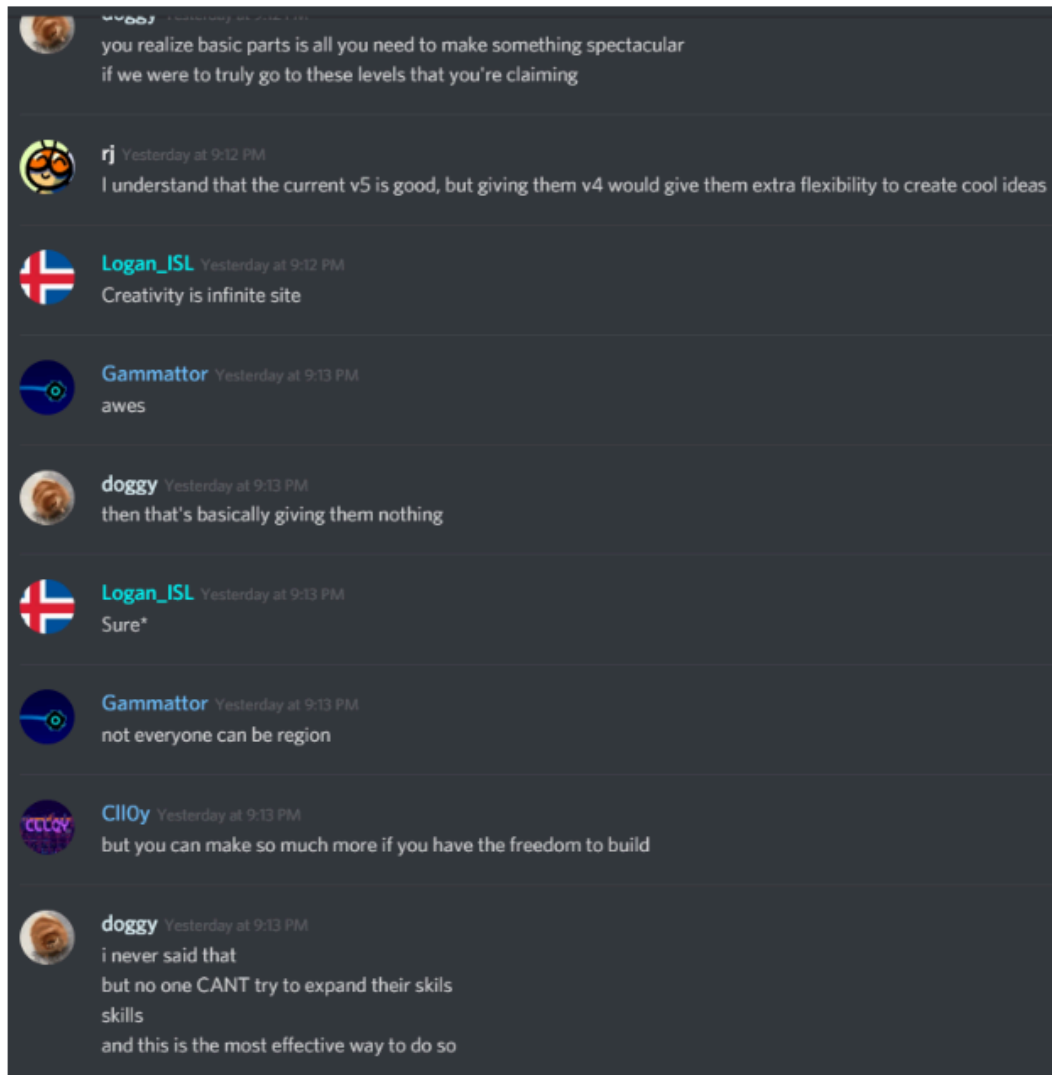

Awes, and Jupiter. The two people, who made this rule and make it exist. That's when I realized, Jupiter's Towers of Hell isn't be ran by the staff team anymore. It's being run by elitists. Who believe they know the answers to everything. I was shocked

(after finding some information this is not true and this entire point as a whole of Logan/Esha being supressed is valid)

The v5 kit was released a week ago (13/06/19) and just further adjustment would lead to some extreme confusion what to use in the community, also this would go back on both Jupiters and Awes Ideas of what they wish to transform the game, they aren't being tyrants here this is just a clear example of blatant manipulation. The reason why this poll did not go through was because it was a clear re-vote of an earlier poll that passed, Esha/Logan brought it up again and won the vote 7-2, which was a revote of an earlier poll. Also like i said earlier the aim of the v5 kit was to simplify things, cause far less confusion within the towers, just imagine if everyone was using their own custom client objects between each new tower, just because it is more creative, doesn't mean it's just as equally good in practice. Imagine ring 7 now, and every single tower had different unique custom client objects, how much of a clusterfuck would that be? Hence the creation of the v5 kit, to simplify jtoh and start to move towards back to its roots.

As you can see here, Doggo is talking about that all you need are basic parts to make something spectacular. While this is true, with more parts you can create something even more spectacular. Imagine making a whole theatre in ROBLOX with just using the plastic material, Here, Eshas/Logan's point is that we should be using everything we have available to us, however this here would go directly against the entire charm of JTOH. JTOH is meant to be a homage to the nostalgic obbies of the early era of roblox, not evolving towards more a modernistic, cleaner style like we currently are on track to do now. "Imagine making a whole theatre in ROBLOX with just using the plastic material." We've managed to create an entire game with just using the plastic material, Esha/Logan i believe this point is just invalid here to your earlier argument.

sure it looks cool in all. But the use of different materials makes the theatre even better.

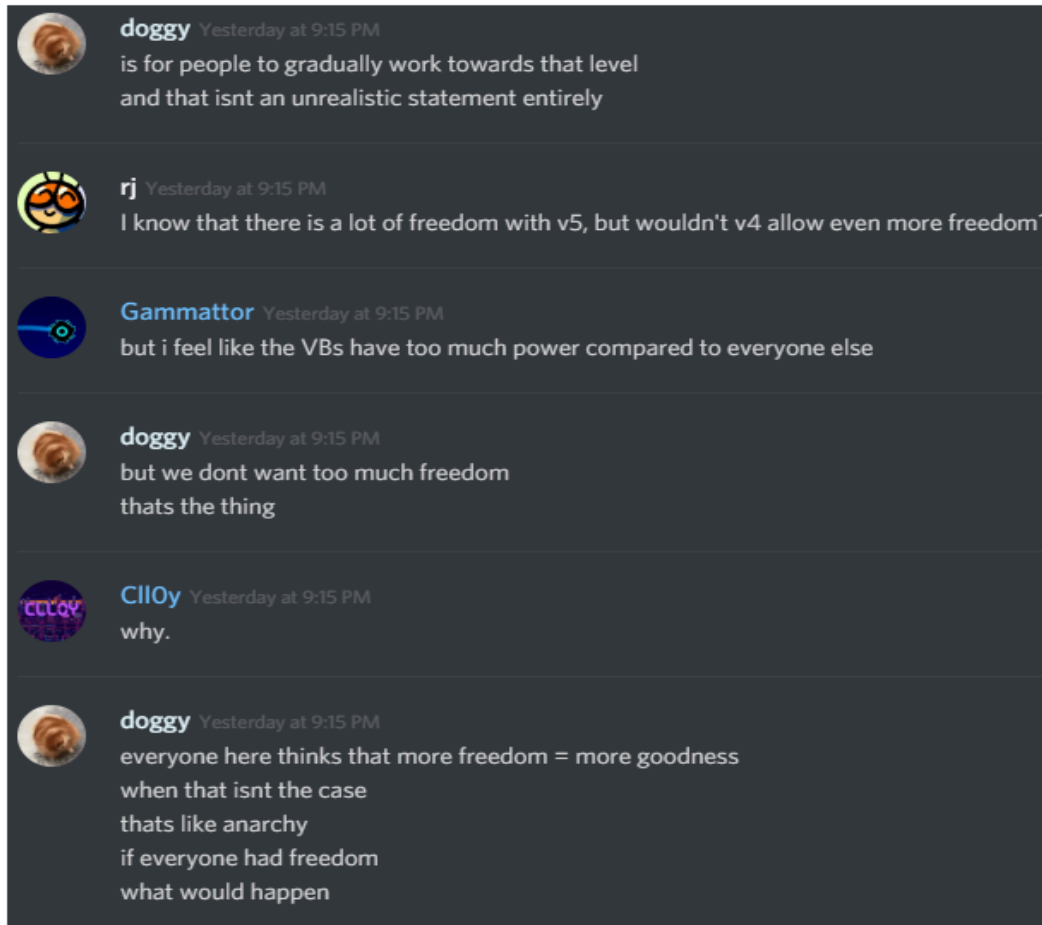

Here I say that creativity is infinite, but creativity is even more infinite with everyone being limitless. I think we can all agree, the fun of building something is being able to be free and express yourself, with these limitations it ruins some of the fun in building. Doggo talks about apparently Jupiter's Towers of Hell being "diverse" There is a lot of freedom, I can give Doggo that but there can be even more freedom. It seems like Doggo kind of wants to take the game into OI:R route slowly as he talks about people Here I can understand your point with being, "access to more things would make creativity more limitless" however I would beg to differ. Firstly if we have more access to more objects, then it would create a less consistent flow between each ring that progresses, just take for example rings 1-4, how smoothly that meshed together, that's what they're aiming for, come around ring 5 and 6, where each tower is so different it's barely recognisable, take Tower of Environmental Pain and Tower of Floral Fury for example, now compare that to Tower of Confusion, or Tower of Keyboard Yeeting. Yeah you wouldn't believe they're from the same game right? The only tell-tale sign would be the fact that it's only made out of the same material, in fact the only thing consistent throughout the rings IS the material. So arguing earlier that you wanted to open up to more materials would ruin the ENTIRE consistency of the rings! Also, there MUST be limitations in building a tower, otherwise it wouldn't even be a tower anymore! Just imagine a tower with all the materials, every single custom client object imaginable, would it be a fun tower? No because it wouldn't even be a tower anymore, since it goes against the basic principles of a tower. Restrictions are needed to drive creativity, as creativity is driven from being restricted and overcoming a problem.

As you can see here, he wants for people to slowly work towards that level, and as you can see here even more people are being against Awes, yet he's sticking to himself. Doggo points out an anarchy in this statement. Aren't we letting VBs being anarchic about custom client objects?

Me and punky were talking about CoSaD in a call, and the subject about the V4 versus V5 was brought up, and Punky said he would rather have the V4 kit with the V5 scripts. I was curious about how the community also would like the idea of this, I am a man of the common man, I believe that all decisions should be made by a majority. but I didn't want to say simply V4

Just because Awes refuses to go against the majority, does not mean he's trying to be a dictator of sorts, the ENTIRE reason why VBs were even made back in KTOH was people who were trusted to create a tower for the game, what have we done since then? Given far more people freedom to create and expand upon the brand that is JTOH, saying "we're being anarchic about letting VBs use custom client objects" it's because they're known for building well-made towers, have a good sense of difficulty and a general idea what's fucking annoying and what isn't. Letting everyone use custom client objects would just result in a fucking shitfest of people spamming custom client objects, hence alot more towers would be denied for doing so, it's sorta like the early days of GD 2.0, everyone was given so much freedom and what was created? For a couple of months, just complete pile of shits, however there were a few exceptions and they were from recognised creators, just like the VBs are too.

Going “Yea this is bias, it's fucking bias, we settled this in staff chat enough of this shit.” If anything, this started the drama. As since Awes picked a side, everyone thought the poll was bias, and manipulating people to believe that it was bias and a hellstorm broke with people saying some very bad things which made be upset.

Ok here was taking out of EXTREME context, now knowing that Esha/Logan posted this in staff chat, where it was refuted and agreed upon, like he states here, “we’ve settled this in staff chat, enough is enough.” This is very clearly biased as Logan/Esha just wishes for the removal of the v5 Kit “as it restricts creativity” Just like we saw earlier it WAS settled in staff chat, It’s very ironic that he’s flocking to Ol:R where it’s far more crude compared to JTOH, where here he preaches about being creative and breaking the original rules of creating a tower. I’m not going to manipulate you here I’m giving you the facts, but take that statement how you want.

Also according to Awes,

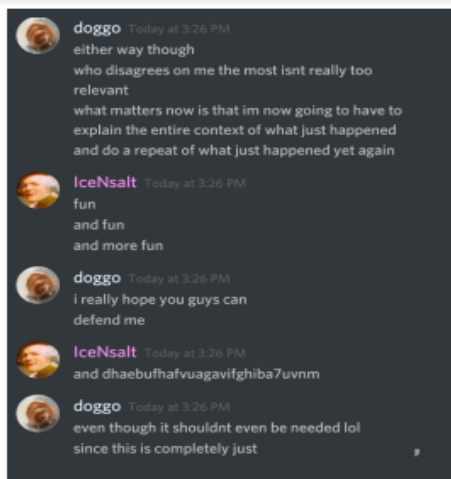

You don't judge off of poll votes, isn't that the same as saying that polls don't matter at all? Are you saying that the people you are effecting don't matter? Are you saying that I believe in myself that I know what is right? I would like to know. I would also like to explain this chunk of Awe's talk in announcements. I will let you set through and read it.

he displayed strong opinions in the poll, which then had a chain reaction to the public which started the whole "v5 kit is terrible" crusade thing the point is though v5 kit was already settled already we compromised for it by adding things back and deciding what to keep out not to mention hours upon hours of discussion and polls inside of the staff chat gathering all the opinions and actually making a final verdict that VAST MAJORITY agreed on there are many logs to support this later in the staff chat though, the discussion was brought up again by esha which then we discussed it again and seemingly came back to the same verdict but we were caught completely off guard when esha made that poll, as not only was it biased and fueled by denial of opinion, it was a poll on something that had already been settled and discussed for days on end and was a poll that was inevitable to start conflict due to the strong opinions happening all of this is grounds for punishment, which is why esha was "demoted"

First of all. I didn't start the V5 is terrible "crusade" I am the one who brought it up, multiple community members I talked too were insanely unhappy with V5. The final verdict majority he is talking about here was not about V4 versus V5 at all but with what V5 items removed, so therefore this is irrelevant for this situation. There was a V4 vs V5 poll and more people did accept V5, but the poll I presented was different. The reason why it "seemingly" came back the same verdict is because I decided to go back to my summer work, so I left the conversation and it was assumed that everything was sorted. I later explained just because I leave doesn't mean a situation is sorted, the poll was supposed to keep you off guard so the community could actually express their opinions. As many of you all know, I wasn't demoted. However, we will get to this soon.

Firstly we only get a general idea what the wider community wants from #polls, we don't take it as a concrete final idea, otherwise we'd have no social order, being too democratic can be bad for us, just imagine in a society everyone voted on everything we did, it'd be far too chaotic and it'd allow us to have no freedom of choice. And about Awes' claims about Esha/Logan. I can see from his perspective that there were several votes on the v5 kit, as it was and still is a controversial topic. Firstly, Awes did not say you caused a v5 is bad crusade, Awes did not victimise you, He was just doing his job as HoS and stated the facts, Esha/Logan clearly wanted to revert back to the v4 kit along with the v5 kit, after several times Awes told him not to, hence why Awes was calling his polls biased once brought out of the staff chat. Just imagine you was a manager of a company of sorts, and then your employee just decides to stop listening to you and goes rogue asking his customers "oh hey do you want this now?" You'd be in complete shock that he's going against what you just said, it'd be completely disrespectful, for this reason i can see Awes' reaction here was reasonable, he escalated the situation unnecessarily.

Awes manipulating, trying to get people to defend him. Using LOL for “shouldn’t be needed”

Obren is the good guy the whole time, Jupiter sits and does nothing in the TC and takes all the money and flexes it. NO ONE gets paid, knightrisk fixed A LOT of things and he was never paid or credited (fixing the falling platforms and stuff.) He was also right saying you (Awes) were a selfish person as I have proved that with the VB staff poll.

Awes is also insanely immature. He uses the n word all the time and passes it as a joke, as you saw using what I called his “trademark phrase” on me. Awes accounts for 25.8% of N - words in staff chat. There is a new staff-stpost channel that everyone dumps their N - words now but I still don’t see it acceptable.

Finally, last but not least, Awes is not a selfish guy, he’s a man of the people. He is normally very transparent. Secondly, if this was true wouldn’t knight be openly complaining about this stuff? Because it’s some serious allegations backed with no evidence, additionally it was announced that knight had fixed the falling platforms... So it’s either Esha/Logan is exaggerating the situation or it’s not as bad as it seems.

And Awes being immature, I am not defending his actions in staff chat calling people the N word, however this point is completely irrelevant from your base argument. This is about JTOH and the controversy of the v5 kit, not Awes saying the N word. This point here feels very weak because it was used to back up a completely unrelated point.

Hopefully by now you can understand Awes’ perspective, thanks for reading this.
