

Dear Mom and Dad...

Why do you hate rainbows?

Is it because you think that they are all messed up in the head and stupid?...

Do you think they are all dangerous to children?...

Perhaps you think they should abandon their beliefs and be another boring straight person like you and everyone else...

Maybe you think their “woke” progressive messaging is outside your “broke”-ass regressive comfort levels. Perhaps you enjoy rainbow-colored roadways getting defaced with skidmarks from someone doing a burnout over them with a truck or being spraypainted with rude messages...

Or... is it just because you think that they are all immoral, brainless people that should be purged, erased, and/or destroyed in a needlessly and absolutely gruesome manner just because you hate them for no particular reason other than the fact that your shitfaced, dumbass, sorry fucking excuse of a president with a bad haircut that wants to rule the country like his idol Hitler hates them as well.

Please...

STOP BEING HATEFUL TOWARDS LGBTQ+ PEOPLE AND GROW UP!

Your actions towards the LGBTQ+ community are childish, Nazi-esque, and oppressive... these cruel actions can get you put in jail in this state if you were to do something really mean to them, as Illinois labels needless hate towards LGBTQ+/Nonbinary people as hate crimes... Even Conversion Therapy is banned in this state, because it's Christians torturing LGBTQ+ children with stuff like beatings, nausea-inducing psychoactive drugs, brain-surgeries such as lobotomies, and etcetera just because they aren't straight... it's considered child abuse as well.

Being LGBTQ+ is NOT a mental disorder, it's a way of life choice for them... We should be free to express ourselves, and not be abused or punished for thinking outside of the box.

These hateful actions are even DANGEROUS towards our friends that may have differing sexual beliefs than us... EVEN OUR OWN FAMILY MEMBERS!

Being hateful towards these people is just inhumane, evil, mean, and wrong... It's not how humans should behave towards other humans. Love should come in all flavors and colors... not just the old same-old man and woman. Progress shouldn't be undone because your dickhead president said so.

NOT ALL LGBTQ+ and non-binary people are like what I just said... a lot of them that I've met are truly good people... you keep using dangerously outdated stereotypes that are systemically oppressive. I don't wish death upon LGBTQ+ and non-binary people; I want to protect those who decide to experiment with love, going against the standard straight love affairs.

People should be free to love whoever they like, whether it's the other gender, the same gender, or even someone who had their gender changed. They can be smart like me... They are not all child predators and can raise kids like normal parents, which you two clearly aren't... as you two are abusive, ignorant, negligent monsters that could care less about these people, unless they were being tortured for absolutely no fucking reason... Gay men are not all stereotypically fucking themselves up the ass on a daily basis, as some aren't really into it for sexual activities... They aren't actually indoctrinating and grooming kids, this is an old, baseless stereotype that's promoted hate since the 70's, we believe that kids should still choose who they want to marry as adults. You two should be absolutely ashamed of yourselves for being such cruel assholes! It was college and progressive media that changed my views on these people to the point where I now embrace and protect them.

I don't call these people horrible cold-hearted, homophobic stuff like "f**s" or "f*****s" anymore, I haven't used those words in years... and I never wish to ever use them again. There is nothing cool or funny about those absolutely harsh words... Homophobes like yourselves who use them to discriminate against gay people are the real "faggots" these days... Especially YOU, Mom... you regressive, anti-progressive pig! Whenever you say something bad about LGBTQ+ people, keep in mind... you're hurting me too.

What if I was lying on a deathbed dying... and the only doctors and nurses available to save me were LGBTQ+/non-binary people? Would you let them save your own offspring? ...or would you just let me straight-up fucking die because you wish death upon people who don't follow your beliefs and/or worry that they might cut my dick off out of nowhere? If you were to do this, and I end up dying as a result of your poor actions... I want my epitaph to read "Here lies G**** "Mochirisu (mow-chee-ree-sue)" *****... They died because their parents are hateful monsters to anyone who isn't straight. I want YOU & your dog to FUCKING SHIT all over THEIR graves for me when they die."

This is you and the rest of MAGA in a nutshell when it comes to "DEI Hires".

You look like silly fools doing this!

You may call these people “useless DEI hires”... however... I’m basically one myself. Autism is part of Neurodiversity... and Neurodiversity is a pillar of Diversity in DEI, which stands for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion. DEI includes a wide range of people like autistic people, women like mom and my two sisters, people of ethnicities and color, LGBTQ+ people, war veterans like Uncle Walter.

African Americans and Mexican Americans are also part of Diversity in the workforce... but my workplace doesn't feel very diverse with a majority of the workforce being Mexican... I'm basically a minority at work with African Americans, but... I wish there was a more equal balance of employees of all races/genders at my workplace, I don't feel like I am getting treated with equal respect by my peers, and I don't feel included or welcomed due to things like language barriers. Please watch what you say in calling people "useless DEI hires" out of the blue... as I... your own kid, is essentially one themselves... My life fucking sucks and it's driving me to a potential suicide because companies are starting to roll back policies of DEI workers such as myself, and workplace harassment may be very commonplace in that shithead's America.

Also, remember that I was trying to get a job at Walmart back in February?... Yeah... they're rolling back DEI financing policies of employees too and getting rid of "woke" merchandise online and in their stores.

I could have been affected under those policies had I got hired by them...

I'm glad I didn't, looking back at that... FUCK WALMART... FUCK 'EM!

and I** in S*****, and M***** Food Mart in M*****. It's a wonder that they didn't get a hold of A*** or D***** G*****. They raise their prices because of corporate greed... not because of Democrats.

Fuck those greedy cowards sucking off Trump's dick! I hate giving them money more than any other businesses, but... I have no choice to... as they ate up other stores like a black hole... like they did to M** P****

I WANT DIVERSITY, EQUITY, AND INCLUSION IN THE WORKFORCE...

NOT THIS MERIT, EXCELLANCE, AND INTELLIGENCE BULLCRAP!

FUCK MEI!

It's discriminatory nonsense...

I ought to slap you hard across the face for calling people this stupid, fucking offensive “useless DEI hire” crap... because you’re ignorant to the fucking fact that your own offspring is basically one of them as well, and just to warn you... I slap extremely hard... I’m not fucking around like you two are. I’d slap you so hard that I’d break your damn cheekbones in!

This “useless DEI hire” shit is ultra fucking offensive to me... I don’t wanna hear it! I’m done with discriminating people... and I’m sick of you doing it too.

It’s childish nonsense to discriminate against other people!

Discriminatory problems that LGBTQ+ people face in our society due to systemic cis-het (cisgender + heterosexual) oppression and stereotyping.

Please keep in mind... we're not painting all "cis-het" people in a bad light, as some are supporting progress... as we're calling them "LGBTQ+ Allies".

Cisgender: People who identify as their genders given at birth, like you two.

(Art credit: Gay Breakfast)

I now sympathize with LGBTQ+ people, advocating for their rights... because I realized that them and us autistic people share a lot of things in common...

We're both needlessly bullied because no-one actually understands us and our pains in life... We're both treated unequally by others... We're both committing suicide because of our lives being made extremely fucking shitty by hateful people that could care less about us... and that's just the tip of the iceberg.

These people are valid, normal humans just like us, aside from them having a different sexual belief than us... not asking or deserving... or wanting, to be needlessly punished like the Jewish in World War II... They have feelings too... They have an unabridged will and right to live like us... They have hardworking and even high-degree jobs, such as being teachers or doctors... They're even artists, writers, and animators trying to make a living like us... They can vote like us... We should protect them, NOT hurt or deny them like the KKK did to African Americans in the 20th Century. These people add unquity and light to a world going back to being boring, dark, and absolutely scary to anyone who tries to protect them... or even be one themself. I'm even scared that L*****... or even worse, me... one of your own kids... is going to be caught in the crossfire... just for not being evil, straight, Christian Nationalists like yourselves.

I have explained before that I have a Lesbian co-worker. I would have taken a photo of her car the other night to prove it... but she wasn't there that Friday night, so you'll have to take my word for it... She does exist and I am not making this up, she usually parks on my side of the building. Anyways... I did say that I was going to feel bad for her when she gets beaten up when LGBTQ+ policies get thrown out the window by Trump... because I know of an absolute homophobe and sexist on my shift... telling people to "stop being gay" and making rude and sexist vagina jokes.

The offender in question is also named G***... although, I prefer not to be called that name anymore... but I am calling myself G*** at work, because I found out that G**** is more of a female name (but can be a gender-neutral name) and I am trying not to express myself because I might end up getting beaten up too. MAGA doesn't like people expressing themselves with "woke" culture... they are a bunch of fucking bullies! The "college frat boy"/"anti-woke" culture at my workplace is extremely toxic... it's more toxic than Chernobyl. The supervisors at my plant are ignorant shitheads when it comes to monitoring workplace culture!

What if me and/or L***** were to get absolutely fucking creamed, or worse... killed, because we said our sexualities out loud in an absolutely unsafe place at the worst time? You wouldn't let them harm one of your own, would you... Just because we said that we were members of the "community". Homophobes like you want us to give up and kill ourselves over your hate because your group is a bunch of ignorant fucking assholes with nothing better to do other than hating on people who think that being straight is overrated.

You're no better than the people who pissed me off in middle/high school... the people who get me into trouble by pushing my buttons and getting off Scott-free because I couldn't get and remember their names to tattle on them to staff.

I don't think L***** likes men, because I actually believe that she was raped a couple of years ago... It's a good reason on why she would prefer to be with women. If you recall that last year at Thanksgiving at R*****'s house, she brought a friend over. What I think that she was told by R***** was that she shouldn't call her friend "her girlfriend" at the dinner, because she knows that you two are homophobic pricks and didn't want to stir up senseless anger at the dinner table from you two. I figured at the dinner that she was probably Lesbian... and I had to hide my thoughts from you that night just to protect her from your hateful anger towards the LGBTQ+, because I know you will disown her and witch-hunt her online for people to hate on her just because she isn't straight, like schools in red states are doing to get kids sent to a Gay Conversion Camp to be beaten and tortured.

I have kept my own sexuality a secret from you guys for many years, because I know you'll probably get angry at me and throw me to the curb if you ever found out, making me homeless and making me want to kill myself like all the others abused by hateful people like you... I've even been having bad dreams of people finding out about my sexuality and I get bullied, abused, and made fun of in them. I am quite good at recalling vivid dreams, especially bad ones... such as ones with tornadoes barreling towards me in them, which is a guaranteed wake up for me... in fact, I had a dream the other night that we were under a tornado warning, and I woke up from the stress that I was feeling in the waking world... I can sense when I am feeling uncomfortable in real life when I am dreaming, as I also toss and turn while dreaming about work, which I always hate dreaming about. I'm now making a dream diary to recall extraordinarily vivid ones every other day I wake up. I even had a dream that correctly predicted Trump winning this year's election nearly three weeks before the election... and my brain was having a breakdown that night while I was having it... I was wiggling around in my bed... making me worried for what he and followers are going to be doing to us in real life now that he... the bad guy... won... I didn't sleep well on the night of November 5th and haven't slept well since. He is invading my mind, and he is not welcome in it... He is scaring me in my dreams and making me worry about my future in a life already full of grief for me. He's made my depression even worse.

You may tell me to go back to being straight and worship these God and Jesus characters and stop worrying and whining about these people that you stereotype as “bad”... gaslighting me into believing that being straight and Christian again would make me happier like all those other fucking MAGA maggots. I can't really do that however... I still wouldn't be happy if was straight, as I can't ignore hatred towards others by pricks who should be brought to justice for doing “the lord's work” on them just for not following their aggressor's religious beliefs, and being Christian again will probably result in me being just like them when they find out about me being part of the LGBTQ+ community, making everything absolutely worse for me.

Also, speaking of religion... I was never a fan of religion... I am truly atheist. I only went to church for Sunday School because I could not stand church sermons and I only really went there to please you... and after I grew out of that baby stuff and went to middle school, I lost faith in Christianity after getting endlessly bullied because of my mental disorder. I HATE GOD... because I believe that autism is a curse at birth, I am tired into being gaslit and fucking believing it's a blessing. Like transgender people... I hate the way that I was made! I cannot deny that people are getting bullied for being unfortunate enough by being born with this shit... I was continuously bullied back in middle school because oblivious teachers did JACK FUCKING SHIT to help me and punish the shithead fucktards pushing my buttons... and now I can't take being bullied at work by the absolute retards at my workplace in the present day for having it, supervisors are as ignorant as the fucking asshats that abuse me and it's piling up on my years-long depression that Christianity will only make worse. I don't think I've felt the same ever since that diagnosis in 2007, I feel like I've been scarred for life over it... I want to kill myself over being autistic like everyone else who's suffered the same fate. I feel like I'm back in 5th grade again and I hate this fucking shit even more now that life seems to be repeating for me.

Also... in middle school, I started viewing Christianity as a scary, cultish religion full of crazy people who killed people for being "witches" for either no reason other than the person "dancing with the devil in others' dreams", or because they assumed they did a sinful act they did not like, such as the Puritans and the Salem Witch Trials. Science was always my favorite subject in school, and I believe it was because of it being an escapism from the lying falsehoods of religion, and that everything that was created on Earth and the cosmos was because of a random coincidence, not an act of a non-existent deity. The Earth was not made in seven days... it actually took about 2 billion years before plant-life and oxygen formed on the planet. I could never rely on God to ever solve my problems, and I always had to rely on you two, the few friends I have, or do it myself... because I know deep down that God does not exist. I cannot have faith in a God that I know doesn't actually exist.

Sadly though, I lost contact with most of my friends after high school, and I feel that Trump stole the both of you from me... turning you into hateful monsters that I feel that are always against me... I don't feel like you two have actually loved me for the last 8 years. I feel like no-one's on my fucking side these days... like I am the only one on my team.

It's disgusting, vile, and sad that you choose hate over love... You deserve to be sprayed in the face with bear mace or be counter-attacked in self-defense if you were to directly attack one of us. I should send the both of you to a rigorous sensitivity class, or worse... an ABUSIVE nursing home where you'll get bed sores, broken bones, and neglectful nurses... over your demented actions. I want you to help me and protect your own fucking children for their beliefs, no matter if you like it or not... because you really do need me around... and I feel insecure without you two. It's why I haven't decided to move out yet... I don't feel safe without you around. Our world out there feels scary and hostile to me, especially with my newfound appreciation for the LGBTQ+ and me now deciding to defy sexual norms because you made me uncomfortable with Trump's backwards-ass, fucking regressive policies, so I decided to get out of your own comfort zone as well and join them in a fight to be progressive against a red wave of vile hatred. I don't trust you two anymore... You broke my trust... and I'm now breaking yours by being an LGBTQ+ person... I have been for the last six years behind your backs.

You shouldn't kick me out of the house or erase me from the family just because I am not only attracted to females, but other types of people as well... being Pansexual, meaning that I'd like anyone, including trans people, to be my partner, and being cool with having the same advocacy towards others that I have... and non-binary, which means I don't identify as a singular gender anymore, now I'm going by they/them pronouns instead my old ones... I don't wish to be sent to a horrible fucking psych ward because you think I might be insane for thinking against your beliefs while being autistic and all. I don't even want you to post shit about me on Facebook and disown me just for not being a hateful straight Christian nationalist.

If you did all that shit... I'd tell my siblings to hate you too... I'll turn the gift exchange into a shouting match or get it cancelled altogether... I'll throw you guys under a bus and ruin your reputation online. I want you to better yourselves towards LGBTQ+ people like I did. I want to stay independent from religion, because I am tired of having a non-existent God that I hate being pushed onto me for giving me a cruddy, shitty life from birth with autism. I'm fucking sick of MAGA hate... I'm sick of being gaslighted by the lying words of Dickhead Don and supporters like you... I'm sick of having religion rubbed in my fucking face... and I am fucking tired of hearing about FUCKING MAGA!

I am already under a lot of stress right now... My current job, the holiday season, Trump, and MAGA is making it worse. I feel like a victim of corporate greed... I'm not being paid enough because of Trump-supporting corporate greed and uncompetitive wages while doing dangerous actions at work, it feels like I am working at Amazon at my fucking job... who's in a lot of trouble for union-busting and lack of safety at warehouses... the one in Edwardsville deserved to be struck by a tornado years ago, it was an already unsafe building. The employees at Amazon are fixing to go on strike because of their mistreatment of employees and I feel like we at G** should too... I'm seeing employees doing dangerous shit here all the time, such as going through small windows with conveyor belts going through them suspended by nearly 15 feet in the air to get to a walkway on the other side and going into areas with running machinery they shouldn't be in, not to mention, some machinery doesn't have enough safety standards and just has some signs that aren't clearly in view of workers LOS, and the other day, I had to stand on top of a unstable table to reach the top of a pallet to put boxes on top of it, which was being carried by one of those transport robots because our line op fucked up, who already hassles me a lot into working faster, which it's hard for me to do while I'm constantly feeling stressed out and depressed... I felt like I was going to end up getting injured while trying to stand on that table. I was feeling like an elephant on tightrope and my balance was already fucked up from working too much there, and I would have possibly been stuck with a $30,000+ hospital bill, paired up with a potentially $1,400 ambulance bill, that our health insurance company, UMR... who is a subdivision of your new health insurance company, UnitedHealthcare... who had their CEO rightfully killed for denying people health coverage while hogging the money all to himself, would probably barely pay Jack shit over, like $800 Jack shit. I heard employees at the plant say that our insurance is extremely fucking shit... saying things like ambulance transport not being covered by the insurance, and that they got injured at work and UMR barely did anything about it... and them having a lousy and miserable customer service experience with them.

If I got injured at work because I had to do absolutely dangerous shit... I'd not only sue the fucking pants off of G** for making me do it... but I'd also rip UMR an absolute new one for not covering my broke ass enough because I DON'T HAVE AN EXTRA $30,000+ IN MY FUCKING POCKETS... and I am not willing to spend my hard-earned money on a surprise hospital visit because of Gilster's shear ignorance and UMR's absolute incompetence!

I'd sue them enough to bankrupt both fucking companies, and I'd reject any settlement they try to bribe me into dropping the case with... Especially after YOUR FUCKING PRESIDENT decides to kill the Affordable Healthcare Act and replaces it with absolutely fucking nothing because all of our country's fucking money is flying south to deport illegal immigrants, even those who aren't dealing drugs and trying to make a living in their new country... because their old one treated them like dogshit, and now their new one is going to treat them like dogshit too! I've seen the fucking reviews of UMR online and they average out to be 1.2 stars out of five on Google... almost all of them are negative. Fuck corporate greed... I wish G** kept Meridian when I worked there the first time, which they dropped after a few months with me on it... I can't believe I'm wasting my paycheck on this crap!

GOOGLE "UMR HEALTH INSURANCE", BECAUSE I DID... ANYONE CAN DO IT!

UMR = USELESS MEDICAL RETARDS

My sleep schedule is fucked up because I am having a hard time balancing my crappy job and my dream job of being a digital artist/ animator and writer... I typically only get 4-5 hours of sleep daily... and the other day, I stayed up until 6 AM to write this essay... on a work-night.

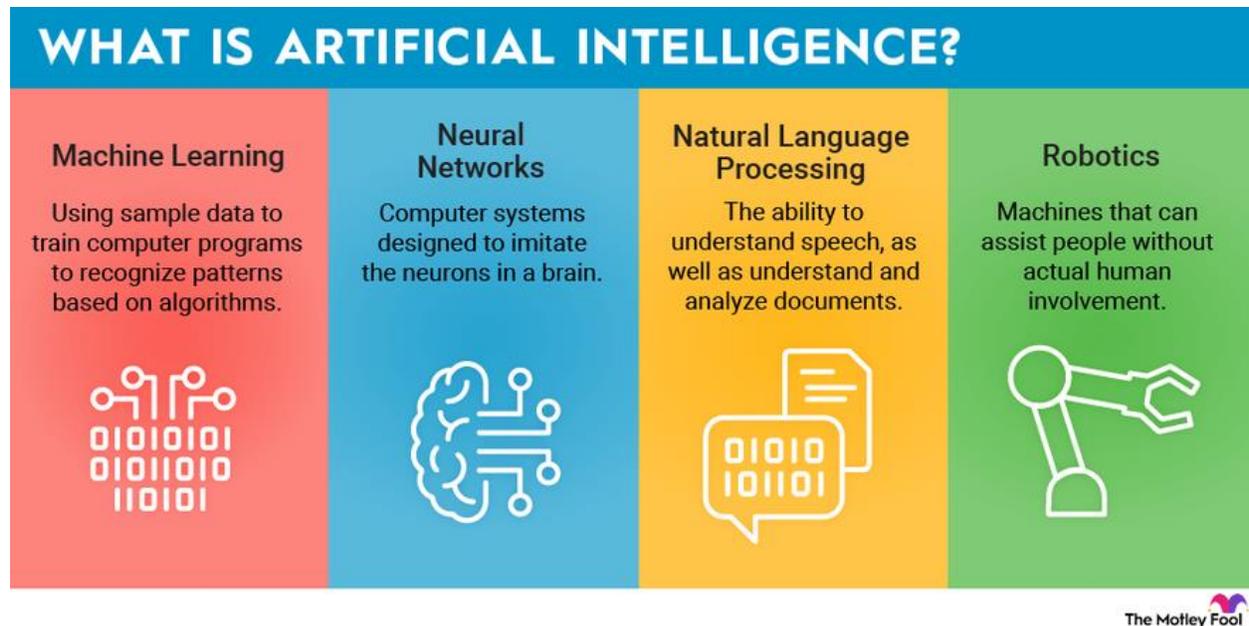

In case you're wondering what I do upstairs all day, here's what I do... I have included with this essay a portfolio of some of of my own stuff that I have made with my own hands since 2022, including character art, a script for a pilot episode, scenes from my YouTube videos, character lore, and even a diorama of a room that I will transform into 2D. I don't usually get enough time in the day to do the stuff I want to do... as you can tell that I get pissed off when I have to stop what I'm doing to go to my fucking shitty job.

Digital art is like traditional art, except that instead of pen and paper... it's a drawing tablet that connects to my PC, a pen that works with it, and a file on my computer (which is the equivalent of paper) where I edit it with the help of a program (I use Clip Studio Paint Pro). I switched to using a drawing tablet when I decided to make content creation a hobby again in 2022, shortly after I returned to S***... I recently upgraded to one with a screen, so I can easily see where I am drawing exactly and to work with more space. I had frustrations with drawing on paper, because you can only erase so many times before you start destroying it. While I was going through the cycle again for the second time, I had started to realize that I had more fun expressing my creativity with creating fun video content with my re-acquired taste for writing stories and now being paired with drawing skills that I seek to keep improving... and I remembered having more fun in writing classes than in programming classes during the original run-through from 2016-2019... Programming felt hard to me and I started to like it less and less as I went through the classes... feeling like I was a starving tiger... shackled up, locked in a depressing, dull room... whereas Content Creation, with art and writing... allowed my mind to roam free again in a way I haven't felt since I was a kid... a young author... now going above and beyond what I did 15 years earlier, I see my old work as obsolete compared to my new work. Unfortunately... your dumbass retard of a president is going to re-shackle my ass with his restrictive, anti-free speech/press policies... making me have to keep doing stuff that I don't enjoy.

After that math class was getting me down last year, kick-starting my depression, I decided to call it quits with programming as I felt like I was going to be a total fraud when I got to actually coding stuff for businesses. I'm probably glad I ditched programming... because I found out what programmers are being tasked to do nowadays by companies, and it's pretty unethical and even illegal... AI Plagiarism Programs... which is bad for the dream job I now wish to seek. My previous passion is now threatening to destroy my livelihood.

These programs generate stuff with AI that crawls over media (such as search topics, books, magazines, news articles, video games, audio clips, and even art and animation), gets information about it, and generates things like text and even new art via user input. Some of it can be useful, but machines aren't always perfect... they can sometimes fuck up and generate absolute garbage like Voyager 1 did last year... which is ~25 billion kilometers (~16 billion miles) away from Earth... still working almost 50 years later in interstellar space. A problem occurred due to a bit-flip caused by a memory error, until it was fixed last month by re-installing its operating environment on its limited memory space, which is about 70 kilobytes of memory... Compare that with my PC... which has 32 GIGABYTES of memory. My computer is nearly 460,000x more powerful than Voyager 1... and nearly 230,000x with both Voyager probes combined... yet they still are capable of bringing new and useful scientific data. Some of the stuff made by AI has produced garbage data from the lack of information it has been given, producing things like sentences that don't make sense for topics that it doesn't have much information on... or generating an error message when there is not enough information given to it. AI has also been a hotly detested topic in the movie/TV industry, as underpaid writers and actors are going on strike and losing their jobs because AI is replacing them because of corporate greed winning. Not only that, but it is also getting people into trouble by plagiarizing referenced sources and not crediting those referenced by the AI... S*** really should crack down on the use of AI, since it should be against their plagiarism and academic dishonesty policies... Other public schools of all types are doing it, so why not S***? Programmers are now being negatively stereotyped into being "content-thieving program creators"... and I could have been part of that crowd!

I'll tell you one thing... that I completely typed this essay without the use of the thing I dread the most, which is AI... spending an entire week of my life at my computer typing this... 160+ hours of absolutely hard work with my own hands after first creating the whole document two whole weeks ago... over 6700+ words spanning 35 pages... not to mention, years of researching true LGBTQ+ culture! Things I won't be able to do under Trump anymore once he takes office again, per his aggressive "anti-Right-Wing conspiracy" policies that label anyone making stories against him an un-American terrorist that deserves to rot in a prison like Guantanamo Bay.

I felt like I wasted my fucking time making the last essay... so I decided to follow up on it to make this one and revealing my secret.

This is the longest essay I've ever written... 0% OF IT IS MADE WITH AI... and I have revised and added on to it twice... The human mind is better than a silly machine and has a soul! My programs tell me how long I've been editing individual projects... including my art program and Word. I may look like a lazy person on the surface... but I am trying to work extremely hard on things that interest me. I rarely play video games anymore and I only really watch TV to study animation practices.

However, I did mention that it was using and creating art and animation, and...

My drawing tablets.

Right is my new one, still in its box and has a screen (Wacom One, purchased Dec. 2024, $249... on sale from $400)

My dream job of being a creative content creator is being literally being stolen from me by AI generation... which is machines stealing art from various actual artists like yours' truly... and shitting all over a blank canvas by generating new art from other people's art via a model system, without giving credit to the original creator. Traditional art by human hands is dead.

Basically, this is what you're doing with your crafts. Mom... I know your dirty secret... you're using AI art! Don't think that I'm not on to your little lazy thief game... Your art should be fucking worthless! I should go with you to craft fairs... going around showing the portfolio, telling people that I make art, telling them that AI is stealing it for monetary gain and not giving credit and/or permission to the original artist, and that you are making crappy art with it... let's see how you like losing money, because that's how I feel as an artist right now. It's also lazy... I spend like 30-50 hours of absolutely hard work on some projects, making multiple revisions and putting fine details on things... while you can just generate absolute crap by typing into a prompt bar and BAM!...

Illegal art instantly!

You're not an actual artist... My grandmother was an actual artist. She worked as a cartoonist at the printing plant and spent hours painting her fine works you see on our walls... I've seen her paint years before she died, and if she returned from the dead... she'd be absolutely pissed the fuck off to see all of this AI shit you're making in her own damn house. She'd probably be pleased with me, who's deciding not to take shortcuts with art and using my own hands and mind to make it... You, on the other hand... you should be haunted in your dreams by her. Perhaps you deserved to get your back broken by her when she was nearing death's doorstep that morning when she fell fourteen years ago.

I drew this myself with my own right hand last year to show my own displeasure towards AI generation, which is going to steal my own artwork... my job... and my money.

(Art Credit: Me, Mochirisu!)

My back is fucking killing me due to aggressively irritating and frustrating overwork at G**. I'm not meant to do physical jobs, I'd much prefer sit-down office jobs at a computer, since I'm doing it nearly every day. I'm panic-buying electronics and computer equipment that I need right now because we don't make electronics like they do in other countries... they will be scarce and overpriced due to YOUR tariffs... it's not good for my dream job that I seek, unless I want to go back to pen and paper, which I'm not willing to do as I've gotten so used to drawing on graphics tablets. That new oven you want is going to be super fucking expensive when Trump works this country over. I need a new phone because my current one is so old, the battery won't stay charged and it doesn't hold much space anymore due to years of data being stored onto it, so much so that I had to buy iCloud just to expand it, and I'm having trouble playing YouTube videos on it recently while disconnected from Wi-Fi, and I don't want to switch to Android because then I would have to buy all my apps over again or switch to less-than-stellar alternatives and a lot of my old stuff wouldn't work on it... Also, I feel like Google is spying on me enough... as it's randomly putting my YouTube avatar as my contact picture in your phones. That new phone is going to be unaffordable for me, I can't make enough money at my current job and Androids are going to be as badly priced as iPhones are next year.

*My PC... My baby... I've named it "Ariel"... after the Disney princess from "The Little Mermaid".
Built in 2022 after two years of planning it... and being heavily maintained, tweaked and upgraded to keep up with the ever-changing industry and potential part malfunctions/recalls that may randomly occur.*

I've already experienced high prices for hard-to-come-across computer parts back in 2020 and 2021, when I was gathering parts to build this PC... The part shortages were due to a combination of previous tariffs and the pandemic. I needed a powerful and expensive PC... because I was sick of buying slow PCs that were fine for stuff like writing a paper... but not so good when it came to rendering video footage with tons of crazy, amazing effects. Before I made the switch to custom builds, it would take me many frustrating hours to render out stuff in video editors and effect programs... basically slowing my PC down to point where I had to let it sit and not be able to really use it until it was done like a sixth of the day later. This new PC has drastically improved my rendering times, and I can do other stuff while its working in the background. It cost me over $2,000 to build the PC initially... and an extra $1,000+ to keep it maintained and upgraded over the last two years. My computer would have likely cost about $6,000+ had the new extra tariffs been in place during my part-picking period... More than I would wish to pay for! Almost none of the parts on my PC are made in America. That proprietary power supply that I replaced twice for mom's PC isn't made in America either. Proprietary parts are rare to come across, because computer manufacturers want to keep making ridiculous, non-standard case designs that turns into paperweight e-waste when they break down, and if it blows out again... you'll probably have to buy a new, extremely expensive PC that Americans cannot make themselves... America doesn't usually make those proprietary parts. I hate proprietary PC parts... because they are hard to find and some are cheap knockoffs that break on themselves after a while, or worse... destroy your entire PC! Every single part on my PC is an industry-standard part that I can easily replace, if they're still manufacturing it. I had to replace the power supply on it a couple of months ago because it fried on itself while I was at work and my PC wouldn't turn on... I couldn't use the PC for a couple of days until a new one arrived. My new power supply is from a company in the Netherlands, who had it manufactured in China... The company is known as Corsair. This same company is behind a majority of the parts IN my PC... like my CPU's cooling system and RAM... and connected to my PC via USB... including my mouse and keyboard.

I don't want to go back to using slow, underpowered PCs. Almost nothing is made in this country anymore. No one wants to... or is willing to work in manufacturing in this damn country anymore, especially under Trump being the hostile prick that he is.

See how all this shit is harming my dream job and wrecking my output?

I want you to take down the prices of groceries, appliances, and other goods right now at the stores, and after Trump takes office, compare them to the old prices... you'll probably see what I mean.

MAGA is the "Fuck Around and Find Out" party, because they fucked around and now they're going to find out what the fuck they did.

TRUMP AND MAGA IS DESTROYING MY SANITY AND BREAKING US APART!

Quit endorsing hate towards other humans, because it is what Hitler did and that tyrant who pretends to be president wants to do.

You don't know what it is like to be hated and discriminated...

Stop hating rainbows... Grow up...
